School Board Must Cut $2 Million from Budget To Meet Spending Cap

Faced with a State-mandated cap increase limited to 7.5 percent, the Princeton Regional School Board must find ways to cut $2 million from its current projected 1991-92 budget of $30.5 million.

The State Legislature on Monday revised Gov. Jim Florio's $1.1 billion Quality Education Act (QEA) by siphoning off $360 million from the public schools for property tax relief.

Under the legislation, annual school spending increases would be capped on two sliding scales: one ranging from 9.7 percent to 22 percent for the 30 poorest districts, and the other ranging from 7.5 to 9 percent for the remaining districts.

"One million dollars in cuts equals 20 teachers," explained Superintendent of Schools Carol B. Choye at the second of seven planned community meetings on the budget held Tuesday morning at Princeton High School.

The projected 1991-92 school budget amounts to $5.8 million more than last year's budget. This $5.8 million must be reduced by $3.8 million to fit in under the cap.

The $5.8 million includes $2.6 million in teacher pensions and social security. Even though the State will continue to fund this for the next two years — before turning the expenditure over to school districts — the amount must nonetheless be included in the cap.

The upcoming budget also includes an increase of $1.4 million in salaries and of $633,900 in insurance costs. Salaries and benefits make up 85 percent of the school budget.

These figures add up to an increase of 17.6 percent in instruction and an increase of

University Agrees to Continuous Monitoring Of Chemicals Used in New E-Quad Buildings

There will be continuous monitoring of the amount and type of chemicals that are used in the new addition to Princeton University's Engineering Quadrangle and its new Materials Science Center.

The University will also be required to inform the Borough Engineer of any new equipment that might change the conditions or uses of the two buildings from that which has been described in the Environmental Impact Statement the University was required to submit as part of its application for permission to construct the buildings. The University will also furnish the Borough with copies of all licenses and permits required for the buildings.

The conditions were imposed by the Planning Board last week when it unanimously voted to grant site plan approval and conditional use authorization to Princeton University for an addition to the Engineering Quadrangle and for a new Materials Science Center. The board also granted a variance for the alignment of an access drive from Olden Avenue to preserve some large trees.

The conditions were in response to the concerns of the neighbors that although the amount and type of chemicals to be used in the two buildings were said not to be of sufficient quantity to pose a serious risk, the situation could change over time, and the Borough would need to monitor this. The hearing on March 5, which lasted until close to midnight when the vote was taken, focused almost entirely on environmental issues.

Anne Marie Desmarais of Jason M. Cortell and Associates, the environmental firm retained by the University to do the Environmental Impact Study of the two buildings, systematically addressed various concerns that had been raised during and since the first Planning Board hearing on the application in January. These included matters relating to storage of chemicals,

State Aid to Help Keep 1991 Borough Tax Rate Almost Same as 1990's

An infusion of $385,000 in municipal aid from the State will help set the 1991 Borough tax rate at 80 cents per $100 of assessed valuation — only one cent more than last year's rate.

Mayor Marvin Reed, however, does not want to stop there. He is hopeful that the rate can be brought down to 78 cents, a penny less than last year, through cuts in the proposed budget.

The $385,000 is part of a $360 million property tax relief program approved Monday by the State Legislature. The money comes from funds that had previously been scheduled for distribution to the public schools.

Preliminary estimates announced in February showed a potential municipal tax increase in the Borough of 14 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, to 93 cents. Early this month — after a number of lengthy budget meetings — Council had reduced the anticipated tax increase from 14 to ten cents. The $385,000 due from the State will reduce the increase to one cent, since the amount is equal to nine points (or cents) on the property tax rate.

A portion of the State aid will be allocated toward a larger appropriation for debt service. This is particularly important, said Mayor Reed, because the price tag to reconstruct major sections of the Central Business District — including Witherspoon Street, Palmer Square, and Vandeventer Avenue — is expected to be $2 million.

Mayor and Council will meet Wednesday night, March 13, at 8 and Saturday morning at 9:30 to continue efforts to reduce the municipal budget. Discussions will focus on the joint and capital sections.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mayor Reed cautioned, "I

Census

The population in West Windsor jumped from 8,542 in 1980 to 16,021 in 1990, according to the Census Bureau figures. Lawrence Township had the third largest gain in Mercer County, going from 10,724 to 25,787 in the past decade. In Middlesex County, Plainsboro grew from 5,605 residents in 1980 to 14,213 in 1990, for a gain of 153.6 percent.

The loss of 485 people in Princeton Township is puzzling, given the number of new homes that have sprung up over the past decade. When the first figures were released, indicating that the Township population had dropped to ten retirees, $130,000 could be cut from the projected budget formal challenge with the Census Bureau, questioning two census "blocks" or count areas. The challenge resulted in the addition of 199 to bring the total to 13,198.

According to Township Administrator James J. Pascale, the Township does not receive any state or federal funding on the basis of population. "We're not like Camden or Newark that are dependent on federal aid and it is based on population," Mr. Pascale said. "We are skeptical of the Census Bureau numbers, but it would be very expensive to hire a demographer to combat the figures. It would be a major undertaking, and there are no cost benefits for the Township."

Assistant Administrator Lyn Evers, who was the Township official in contact with the Census Bureau, says that the Board of Education has indicated there are 500 fewer students — not 1,000 fewer as reported in February — than there were 10 years ago. This number is not broken down into Borough/Township residents, but she theorizes that if students are moving out of the district, they must be leaving with a parent or two, and that this could account for the drop in the overall census.

Change In Family Size

But she feels a more likely explanation is a change in family size and structure over the past decade. Families are having fewer children because they can't afford big families, and there are more single person households.

Tax Assessor Carol Caskey says there are fewer children than one might expect in the new big houses that have been built in the Township in the past decade. She says, "The big new houses do not have four children or the big families like they used to." Using The Glen, a subdivision of 24 homes off Mountain Avenue, as an example, she says there are only five children in the entire development.

Ms. Caskey points out that homes with purchase prices of $800,000 or $900,000 and up are not likely to be purchased by young couples starting to raise a family. Instead, they are going to older, wealthy retirees, or couples — sometimes in a second marriage — whose children are in college.

The U.S. Commerce Department has until July 15 to make adjustments for undercounts or overcounts in the 1990 census figures. But Township officials do not plan to make any further challenges to the figures.

23.1 percent in health and property insurance costs.

Dr. Choye outlined ways in which a half million dollars could be saved. This would include a saving of $100,000 in food service costs through the use of a different approach, and a reduction of $75,000 in transportation by ending the "late bus" and by staggering school hours.

She also said that, assuming a freeze for one year, suggested a member of the audience. "This would save $1.4 million. We'd have $2 million right there."

Under the contract ratified in July, 1990, Princeton Regional teachers will receive an average salary increase of 9.3 percent over each of the next three years.

Criteria suggested by Dr. Choye in formulating the budget include preserving the core instructional program, maintaining a reasonable class size, and maintaining adequate support for remedial programs.

She outlined a number of areas in the high school that might be looked at during the next few weeks prior to the budget hearings and the anticipated adoption of the budget on April 16 or 18.

These include the balance between academic and co-curricular activities; the number of electives offered every year, and whether some might be offered every other year; a possible limitation on the number of courses a student can take; and the introduction of a cut-off for class sign-up and change.

Also scheduled to be examined is the no-cut policy in sports, and whether the

Forum on Princeton

The Princeton Business Association will sponsor a forum on issues concerning Princeton at a special meeting on Thursday at 5:30 at the Nassau Inn. The open discussion will be led by Princeton Borough Mayor Marvin Reed and Princeton Township Mayor Dick Woodbridge. The meeting will be hosted by John H. Dumont of the law firm of Hannoch Weisman, and the public is invited to attend.

The Princeton Business Association is affiliated with the Princeton Area Chamber of Commerce, and its membership is comprised of businesses from the Borough and Township.

school's wide offerings in athletics should be continued.

"As a parent of two children in the high school, I want all of these things," said Board President Joel Cooper. "I know at this point we can't have all of these things. The administration has to come to the Board with a list of cuts."

One member of the audience said that the perception in the community is that more dollars are spent in Princeton on administrative costs and support staff than in other districts, and asked that this be examined.

Another asked that administrative salaries be looked at. Dr. Choye said that everything was being examined, but noted the difficulties of discussing personnel cuts publicly.

"There is a tremendous diversity of languages offered," said another woman in the audience. "Diminish the number and shore up the quality of teaching."

Several members of the audience felt there should be more fundraising and requests for donations to the schools within both the community and area businesses.

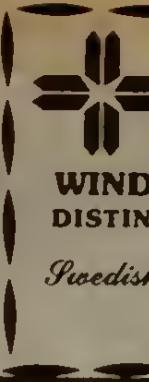

"The 7.5 percent cap provides no accommodation for enrollment growth or increases in health benefits," said School Board Member Corinne Kyle. "There is also no relaxation of mandated programs, such as asbestos abatement."

"We are committed to looking at every aspect," she continued. "Only at the last resort will we reduce personnel that will affect instructional programs."

Council Accepts Donation
Of Land from University

A gift of some two acres on West Drive from Princeton University was formally accepted by Borough Council at its meeting last Thursday — but not without objections by several Council members.

The land will be turned over to the Borough Housing Authority as the site for 20 units of Federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) low income rental family housing. Construction will be financed by a $1.9 million HUD grant.

The donation is subject to the approval of the Princeton University board of trustees, which will meet next month.

"This will lead to the moving into town of 20 households," said Councilman Roger Martin-dell about the proposed project. "We'd have to deal with them. They'd have to deal with us."

He complained that he had no information concerning the HUD grant, which was awarded to the Borough Housing Authority in 1986. "In the almost 24 months I've been on Council, the project has not been on the front burner. I have asked for information so I can cast my vote in an informed manner."

Reminded by Councilman Mark Freda — who has taken a major role in helping to find a site for the 20 units — that the project belongs to the Housing Authority and not to the Borough, Mr. Martindell responded that it could nonetheless affect the Borough taxpayer.

West Drive is located in the Township, and the 20 units — as specified in Judge Eugene Serpentelli's Mount Laurel ruling — would count toward the Township's obligation.

"The housing could be located in the Borough and count toward the Borough's affordable housing obligation," said Mr. Martindell. "There is also the theoretical opportunity to request cash in lieu of land, although I am not sure the University would donate cash."

"I want to look at the project," he continued, "have a presentation, see what is planned. One of the criticisms of Griggs Farm is that it is too far out of town. Is this too far out of town? I've been asked to make a decision. It's just a conception — housing on West Drive. You're either for it or against it."

No Sites in Borough

Councilwoman Jane Terpsitra told Mr. Martindell that, basically, there are no sites in Princeton Borough on which to build the 20 units. "We don't have to spend any money from the taxpayers of Princeton to build this housing," she said. "In addition, it's rental housing, and there is a very strong need for affordable rental housing. There is an opportunity to provide this without coming up with the money ourselves."

There had been some discussion earlier this year about placing the 20 units on Maclean Street, where the Borough has been planning to construct 28 units in its own affordable housing program. Mayor Reed noted that the Borough Housing Board wanted to keep the Maclean Street lot for the Borough program, rather than putting more HUD rental units in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood.

Councilwoman Lucy MacKenzie said she thought there should be more tolerance on Council for those members who had not been around for years. She said that the HUD units had never been presented to Council as a project.

Addressing Mr. Martindell, Mr. Freda said, "You imply this is a very rushed decision. That is unfair. If we can get this grant and continue with our own [affordable housing] project, we will have two successful projects. Maybe there will be indirect costs; maybe there won't. With the donation from the University, plus the grant, we can get the land plus almost two million dollars."

Mr. Martindell reminded Borough Administrator Mark

Gordon that he had asked for documentation regarding the acceptance agreement with the Township on the 20 units.

"This is not in writing," said Mr. Gordon. "It is in the [Mount Laurell] agreement with Judge Serpentelli."

Councilwoman Terpstra asked that the question of whether to accept the University's donation be called.

Councilmembers Freda, Terpstra, Trolman, and Goldfarb voted to accept. Mr. Martindell abstained. Ms. MacKenzie voted "no" because, she said, there was no written agreement with the Township.

There is a long waiting list for low-income family housing in Princeton. It is virtually certain that all 20 apartments will be made available to families who live or work in town. The most recent family to be assigned HUD housing in Princeton applied in 1985.

Other projects administered by the Borough Housing Authority are Clay Street, Spruce Circle, Redding Circle, Maple Terrace, and Franklin Terrace.

Special Meeting Planned By the Library Trustees

The trustees of the Princeton Public Library have scheduled an extra meeting this Wednesday, March 13, to discuss library expansion plans.

The trustees will go into closed session at 5:30 to discuss whether or not to purchase the vacant Epstein's store at the Princeton Shopping Center. There is some feeling that if the Library expands at Epstein's rather than at its present location it should own the building rather than lease it from the Shopping Center. The present library building is jointly owned by the Borough and the Township.

According to the meeting announcement, the Library trustees will convene in open session at approximately 6:45 to discuss the proposed expansion of the Library. The ad hoc committee — headed by Harry Levine — that has been conducting negotiations with the Shopping Center owners and preparing cost comparisons of the two alternatives, is expected to provide additional information to the trustees on relative costs.

The ad hoc committee is also expected to ask the trustees to commit to one alternative or the other, believing that if the trustees take a position they will be in a better position to get the two governing bodies to commit funds for library expansion. During joint municipal budget sessions, the two governing bodies agreed to set aside $55,000 in their 1991 capital budgets for next-step architectural drawings but also agreed that the money will not be appropriated without formal approval by both Borough Council and Township Committee.

A Tentative Agreement On New Police Contract

The Township has reached a "conceptual agreement" with the Township police union, Policemen's Benevolent Association No. 130, on a contract governing police salaries and benefits over the next two years.

Under the terms of the agreement, the police will receive a 6.75 percent salary increase in each of the two years and they will pay 20 percent of their medical insurance costs, starting this year. Township Administrator James J. Pascale confirmed that Township Committee agreed to these terms in closed session a week ago Monday after a day of negotiations. Mr. Pascale said, "It is our understanding that the PBA members were polled on Tuesday and that they have ratified the agreement," but he declined to discuss the contract further.

Mr. Pascale said the next step is for the PBA attorney to put the agreement in writing and for Township Committee to review it to make sure it says what Committee believes it has agreed to. If all is in order, the Township attorney will prepare a resolution accepting the agreement for Committee to vote on at a regular meeting.

Downtown Betsey Brown Great Giveaway!

McCarter Theatre and the Palmer Square merchants are sponsoring a month-long promotion, ending with a March 25th drawing for 25 pairs of tickets to the April 2nd showing of BETSEY BROWN.

The Palmer Square merchants are currently displaying posters and entry forms, and according to Alice Miller, McCarter's Community Relations Director, "We're inviting the public to come into the shops to register for tickets to BETSEY BROWN, a new rhythm and blues musical."

In addition to receiving tickets to the April 2nd performance, the winners will be eligible for the grand prize drawing at a reception immediately following the show. Prizes to be given away include merchandise from Palmer Square merchants, a weekend at the Nassau Inn, and 91-92 season tickets to McCarter Theatre.

BETSEY BROWN, which was written by Ntozake Shange and Emily Mann, McCarter's Artistic Director, will run from April 2-21.

Stabbing Suspect Is Offered Deal; Prosecutor's Office Will Plea Bargain

Gerald Greffrard, the 22-year-old Witherspoon Lane resident, who has been held in custody in lieu of bail ever since he was charged last June with stabbing an Oakland Street resident while she was taking a shower, has been offered a plea bargain deal.

In Mercer County Superior Court last week, Assistant Mercer County Prosecutor Edward Bertucio Jr. offered to dismiss a second degree armed robbery charge if Greffrard pleads guilty to a second degree assault charge. Judge Charles A. Delehey said that if Greffrard declines to accept the plea bargain, his trial will begin April 8. Greffrard has been charged with aggravated assault with a weapon and with robbery.

Greffrard, a native of Haiti who came to Princeton in 1984 and was working as a clerk in a grocery store on State Road at the time of the incident, was immediately viewed as a possible suspect in the fatal knife slaying of Emily Stuart at her home on Mercer Street in April, 1989. Police here and County law enforcement officers, however, have consistently refused to comment on whether Greffrard is considered a suspect in the slaying. That murder, the first in the Borough in 11 years, has never been solved.

Greffrard was apprehended by police less than a half-hour after he allegedly burst into the bathroom of the victim and stabbed her in the arm and ribs. The victim told police her assailant was wearing a wool ski mask over his face.

Greffrard was arrested by Borough police inside his home on Witherspoon Lane, where he had jumped under the covers of his bed. Two days later, a neighbor found an 11-inch knife outside his apartment which is believed to have been used in the attack.

Agreement Is Reached On Repair of Sidewalks

Township Committee has introduced a bond ordinance appropriating $37,500 for the repair of the sidewalks along Valley Road and providing for a special assessment of the abutting homeowners who will pay 75 percent of the cost. The Township will pay the other 25 percent.

The residents were invited to a special meeting in the Valley Road building at which the project was explained. The matter has also been discussed in work session at two Committee meetings, including last Monday night when the ordinance was introduced. Committee decided to up the Township's share to 50 percent of the cost in the case of one resident who lives on the corner of Valley Road and Jefferson Road because the original sidewalk had been poorly laid.

It was also decided not to replace the sidewalk along the Jefferson Road side of her property, even though it is in bad condition, because doing so would have resulted in a double assessment and hardship for this particular resident. Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser told Committee that his office had inspected the sidewalks along all the properties on both sides of Valley Road and concluded that 60 percent are in need of replacement.

Reconstruction of Valley Road has been awaiting completion of replacement of the sewer line under the road and decisions on installing a traffic light at the intersection of Valley Road and Route 206, but the project is expected to go out to bid in the next two weeks, Mr. Kiser told Committee. Replacement of broken or deteriorating sections of the sidewalk will be undertaken at the same time. The cost for the road resurfacing, including new drains and reconstruction of parts of the roadbed that are in particularly bad condition, is estimated at $250,000.

Road Work to Begin

The Borough's first road reconstruction project of 1991 is scheduled to begin Monday — weather permitting. The contract covers Vandeventer Avenue, Moore Street, and Park Place.

It is anticipated that work will begin on Moore Street, between Hamilton Avenue and Nassau Street. The streets involved will occasionally be closed. At these times, detour signs will be prominently posted. Motorists can expect occasional periods when traffic will be reduced to one lane.

This project is part of the Borough's planned $2 million road reconstruction schedule this year. In addition to the contract expected to begin Monday, reconstruction is also planned on Witherspoon Street, Chambers Street, and Palmer Square. This will begin in May, on Witherspoon Street.

A pre-construction meeting on the Vandeventer/Moore/Park Place project will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at Borough Hall. On Monday, a neighborhood informational meeting on the Witherspoon Street reconstruction will take place at 5 p.m. at Borough Hall.

On Monday, April 1, at 5 p.m., a neighborhood informational meeting on Chambers Street will be held at Borough Hall.

The public hearing on ordinances to approve and fund both reconstruction projects is scheduled for the April 9 Borough Council meeting.

BAIL SET FOR STUDENT IMPOSTER: James Arthur Hogue is led from Mercer County Superior Court by County sheriffs last week after Judge Richard J.S. Berlow Jr. set bail at $25,000 with a 10% option. Hogue was arrested last month for duping Princeton University out of $40,000 in aid while posing as self-taught student Alexi Indris-Santana.

Hogue Is Arraigned; Bail Is Set at $25,000

Amid intense media interest, 31-year-old James Arthur Hogue, the bogus Princeton University sophomore who had posed as a self-taught student ten years younger, was arraigned last week in Mercer County Superior Court.

Judge Richard J.S. Berlow Jr. set bail at $25,000 — half the amount requested by Assistant Prosecutor Dennis Siaboda, who had cited Hogue's criminal record. Judge Berlow attached a ten percent option which means Hogue could leave the Mercer County Detention Center, where he remains this week, by posting $2,500.

There's a catch 22, however. If Hogue does make bail, it doesn't necessarily mean he would be a free man. Judge Berlow attached a condition that he must sign a waiver that would send him back to Utah. The board of pardons in Salt Lake City has filed a delainer to keep Hogue in custody for violating his parole conditions there.

After serving ten months of a five-year sentence for possession of stolen bicycle frames and parts, Hogue was assigned to a halfway house for the remainder of his term but left the state.

Two days after his arraignment, two Princeton University freshmen were selling "Free James Hogue" T-shirts on campus for $10 each. They had sold about half their stock of 50 shirts, when University officials clamped down and said they couldn't sell any more.

Last weekend before a sellout crowd of 7,735 in Jadwin Gymnasium at the Princeton-Loyola Marymount basketball game, "Free James Hogue" signs were flashed in the stands.

Pleaded Not Guilty

Flanked by his court-appointed attorney, public defender Ted Fishman, Hogue pleaded not guilty to the charges against him: theft, forgery, criminal impersonation and falsifying records. While Hogue has steadfastly refused to say anything to reporters, Mr. Fishman allowed that "the amount of attention is mind-boggling."

The fascination stems, Mr. Fishman guessed, from a major University being duped by a fugitive out of some $40,000 dollars. At the arraignment, Mr. Siaboda revealed that Hogue received $20,000 in student aid from three sources: the University, a student loan from the Midlantic Bank of New Jersey and from a federally-funded Pell grant. In his sophomore year, he received a total of $20,800.

Hogue had represented himself as a self-taught, former cowboy who was raised on a commune in Nevada. He claimed his parents had been killed in Bolivia.

His trail of lies and deception began after he graduated from high school in Kansas City where he was born. Using assumed names and sometimes his own, he also attended a high school in Palo Alto, Calif., the University of Wyoming, and Texas and Stanford Universities.

His masquerade came to an end last month at a track meet in New Haven where a Yale student recognized Hogue as a former classmate at Palo Alto High where he was known as Jay Mitchell Huntsman. Hogue had taken the name from an infant who had died two days after being born.

Patrolmen Are Injured In Palmer Square Crash

Two Borough patrolmen complained of neck injuries last week, after their patrol car was struck on Palmer Square.

The driver, Ptl. William Fife was treated for pains to his neck and back at Princeton Medical Center and released. His passenger, Ptl. William Nathan was treated by his own doctor. He was fitted with a neck collar and has been forced to miss work.

According to the police report, the patrol car was heading up Palmer Square Saturday afternoon when a Volvo pulling out of a parking space struck the patrol car with enough force to push it sideways into a parked Mazda Miata owned by Ann Johnston of Overbrook Drive.

The driver of the Volvo, Irma Rudin, 68, of New York City was issued a summons for improper signal by Sgt. Donald Dawson who investigated. She was not injured.

Township Contest Only

Three Township residents have filed petitions to run for the one open seat on the Princeton Regional School Board. There will be no contest, however, for the two open Borough seats. Two candidates — incumbent Ruth Bronzan, a resident of Snowden Lane, and Deborah Curtis, a John Street resident — have filed and will be on the ballot.

Up until last week, only Dick Kouzes, of Philip Drive, had filed a petition to be on the ballot for the two Township seats. Before the filing deadline fell last Thursday, he was joined by William H. Cherry, of Dempsey Avenue, a former Township committeeman, and Ann Baynes Coiro, a resident of Hemlock Circle.

The School Board election is scheduled for Tuesday, April 30.

Assault Charges Filed Against Police Officers

A February 27 fight on Palmer Square between two off-duty Borough police officers and two occupants of a car escalated this week into countersuits of assault by the two suspects and the launching of an internal investigation by Chief Thomas Michaud and Capt. Peter Hanley.

On Tuesday, William J. Bauer, 33, of 16 Linden Lane, signed an assault complaint against Ptl. Steve Riccitello, a 4½-year veteran on the force. Mr. Bauer is recovering at home from having had his spleen removed at Princeton Medical Center as a result of the brawl.

Earlier, Joseph K. Wright, 31, of 243 Hendrickson Drive, West Windsor, had charged Ptl. Vincent DeMartino with assault. Ptl. DeMartino is in his first year on the force.

Both sides have told conflicting stories. What had made it more difficult, said Chief Thomas Michaud this week, is that both Mr. Bauer and Mr. Wright have refused to come to headquarters to make a statement. He has not talked yet to either one.

"It's hard to conduct an investigation if their side of the story is just from newspaper accounts," said Chief Michaud. "There have been some discrepancies throughout the incident but the only information I have from the two suspects is what I've read in the papers."

Initially, he didn't have a lot of creditable information to go on, Chief Michaud stated. "After the evidence became more clear, I decided to do a thorough investigation. We're in the process of trying to gather as much information as possible from all sources," he added, as he fingered the thin file on the incident on his desk.

As part of his investigation, Chief Michaud reported that he is developing information from two witnesses. One is a Borough resident who heard the commotion shortly before midnight and ran from his home to the scene. The witness told police that he saw both officers attempting to hold down the suspects who were struggling to get away.

The officers identified themselves to the witness and asked him to call for help. The witness, Chief Michaud said, saw that one of the officers needed physical help. He helped restrain Mr. Bauer who, he said, was violently kicking and struggling. He (Bauer) had a piece of glass in his hand and was trying to cut Ptl. Riccitello.

"That's a lot of bull," said Mr. Bauer on Tuesday. He had, he acknowledged, a bottle of beer in his hand when he got out of the car. When Ptl. Riccitello came running toward him, "I dropped the bottle and it broke."

"They're just trying to make their case look better. I would never attack anybody with a broken bottle unless I was in fear of my life. And maybe not even then. I'm not that kind of person. I'd turn tail and run before I'd do that."

Witnesses Support Police

Chief Michaud is in the process of taking a statement from the second witness. He declined to reveal their names but said that neither person knew the suspects. The account the witnesses give supports the officers' report, he said.

"The only information I have to suggest impropriety is newspaper accounts and the assault complaint signed Mr. Wright," Chief Michaud said Monday. "It is not unusual," he added, "for count-

Free AIDS Testing

Central New Jersey residents who think they may have been exposed to the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV), the virus that causes AIDS, can get a free blood test.

The staff of University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School offer counseling and testing services on a walk-in basis Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 5:15 to 7:30. The testing can be done on either a confidential or anonymous basis.

"Early identification and treatment of the HIV infection can reduce morbidity and prolong life," said Ann Brennan, program director. "It is vital that treatment begins before more serious illness sets in."

The test and counseling are free and are offered in the ambulatory care building of Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, core teaching affiliate of the medical school. For more information, call (201) 418-2957.

er complaints to be signed in incidents like this."

According to the police version of the incident, the officers were parked, in separate cars, along side of each other on Palmer Square, blocking the roadway, when a car pulled out from a parking place behind them. The driver allegedly began honking his horn and yelling obscenities.

Ptl. DeMartino exited, detected an odor of alcohol from the driver, and said he identified himself as a police officer. He asked Mr. Wright to turn off the motor. At first, Mr. Wright seemed to comply but then allegedly got out of the car and charged at the officer. As the two struggled, Mr. Bauer got out and tried to come to the aid of his companion but was intercepted by Ptl. Riccitello.

The officers claim the two suspects were kicking and yelling and shouting and could not be restrained until a backup patrol car with four officers arrived.

"They Didn't Answer"

Both Mr. Wright and Mr. Bauer, who acknowledged they had four or five beers and were on their way to another bar, claim that it was the police who were shouting obscenities and who attacked them. Mr. Wright claimed they did not identify themselves as police officers. "They kept yelling at me, 'Are you drunk? Are you drunk?' And when I asked if they were police officers, they didn't answer."

An Acme store employee, Mr. Wright has since declined to comment further until he obtains a lawyer. Mr. Bauer on Tuesday said he was certain the officers did not identify themselves as police officers until the patrol car arrived.

He is employed as a chef at Princeton University but says he will be unable to work for a while. If he walks more than 50 feet, he said, it's too painful. "I have a lot of heavy pots and trays I have to lift at work. I'll be laid up for a while." Mr. Bauer has not yet obtained an attorney.

Mr. Wright has been charged with driving while intoxicated, consumption of alcohol in a motor vehicle, refusing to take a breath test, resisting arrest, simple assault and with having an improper audible device on his car.

Mr. Bauer has been charged with simple assault and resisting arrest. Both were scheduled to appear in Borough court on Monday. Chief Michaud says he has no intention of suspending the officers and added that both are physically smaller than they were described in newspaper accounts.

A Major New Facility For Bristol-Myers Squibb

Bristol-Myers Squibb Company has announced it will build a 600,000-square-foot facility in Princeton Forrestal Center in Plainsboro Township. The new buildings will primarily house Bristol-Myers Squibb's U.S. Pharmaceutical Group.

"New Jersey is the right place for us," said Wayne Davidson, president of the firm's pharmaceutical and nutritional group. "It's the heart of the nation's pharmaceutical industry, home to universities nationally known for their research and rich in the human resources we need for our business's continued growth."

The new buildings, to be constructed on 106 acres fronting Scudders Mill Road, will eventually house 1,800 employees in administrative, sales, and marketing areas. The majority of these employees now occupy more than 300,000 square feet of leased space in seven different locations throughout the Princeton area.

Approximately 350 to 400 new employees will be added to the staff presently existing in New Jersey. Of this group, a number of sales, marketing, and operations personnel are expected to transfer from pharmaceutical operations located in Evansville, Ind., and Buffalo, N.Y. Additional personnel will be hired locally.

The developer chosen for the project is Hines Interests Limited Partnership, a division of Gerald D. Hines Interests of Houston, Tex., with offices in New York City and Princeton. The architect is The Hillier Group. Sordoni Skanska Construction Company of Parsippany has been named contractor.

Some 250 to 300 additional construction jobs will be created this spring when the company breaks ground for the complex. The first section of the new building is scheduled for occupancy in mid-1992, with two additional sections to be completed the following year. The three buildings will be connected by enclosed walkways.

heard a pop. The pop was an object flying through a 3-foot by 3-foot window on the west side of the wing.

Police were called at 9:55 but by the time they arrived everything had been cleaned up, said Chief Thomas Michaud. They were unable to find any object.

Township police reported two incidents of raw eggs being tossed at homes.

Between 11 and midnight Saturday, a home on Franklin Avenue and a car on the property were struck with eggs. A short time later, between 12:30 and 7 Sunday morning, a home on Riverside Drive was targeted by the egg throwers. No suspects, say police.

Deposits Are Missing; $2,205 From PSC Store

Two cash deposits totalling $2,205 are missing from a store in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The theft took place sometime during the last week of February but was not reported to Township police until Friday. According to Lt. Anthony Gaylord, the deposits were last seen inside the store and were believed to have been deposited in a bank but the bank reports it has no record of any deposit. "We don't know what happened," said Lt. Gaylord, who declined to identify the store.

There was no forced entry and no trouble with employees, Lt. Gaylord added. Police, he said, have no suspects.

On Friday, a Trenton resident left her wallet on a counter at the Amoco service station in the Princeton Shopping Center. When she returned 90 minutes later at 8:30 p.m. the wallet was missing. The victim lost approximately $120, a $200 pearl necklace and a check.

In the Borough, a woman's black silk suit valued at $816 was shoplifted in February from Celia Boutiques, 51 Hulish Street. Also, a long, $300 black leather coat was stolen Friday from a coat rack in a hallway at the Nassau Presbyterian Church. Police identified the victim as a resident of Morrisville, Pa.

The locked room of a visitor from Charlotte, N.C. at the Nassau Inn was entered Thursday between 7:30 in the morning and 5 p.m.

Taken were pieces of jewelry worth an estimated $1,600. Included in the theft were a gold ring with a ruby surrounded by diamonds, a gold band, a 24-inch gold rope chain and two, 24-inch gold serpentine chains.

In one of two bicycle thefts on the University campus last week, a 21-speed Specialized model valued at $750 was stolen from Spelman Hall where it had been locked to a handrail in a first-floor stairway.

A 21-speed Trek 800 mountain bike, valued at $300, was taken from in front of the Cap and Gown Club on Prospect Avenue. Police report the bike had been locked to itself.

Protest by Merchants: Possible Loss of Meters

A number of merchants from the east end of Nassau Street came to last week's meeting of Borough Council to protest the possible loss of seven parking spaces in their neighborhood.

The State Department of Transportation (DOT) plans to remove the meters from the south side of Nassau Street, between Olden and Maple, when Nassau Street is repaved this summer.

The State plans to do this because of the high incidence of parked cars being hit along this stretch, which is extremely narrow.

"We oppose the removal of any parking spaces on Nassau Street," said Nassau Seafood's Jack Morrison. "We have 30 mom-and-pop businesses and only 15 spaces. We'll be down to seven spaces."

Mr. Morrison suggested that he might start a petition drive against the removal of the meters. Councilwoman Jane Terpstra voiced encouragement of this idea.

Councilman Mark Freda said that representatives of the governing body should get in touch with the DOT and explain that the removal of the meters would adversely affect the merchants.

A community information session on the subject has been scheduled for Tuesday, March 19, at 5 p.m. at Borough Hall.

Former Teacher Here Is Put On Probation

In Superior Court in Trenton last week, Matthew Torrey, 25, a former teacher at the American Boychoir School off Rosedale Road, was placed on probation for four years for engaging in a sexual act with a student in late 1989.

In addition, Judge Richard J.S. Barlow Jr. fined Mr. Torrey $480 and barred his engaging in any occupation in the future that involved working with children.

Also to Richard and Gail Wheeler of Robbinsville, March 4, Keith and Anne Hone of Pennington, March 5; Thomas and Maureen Dunlap of Princeton; David and Grace Baillargeon of Cherry Hill, both on March 6; Joseph and Kelly Givens of Monmouth Junction, Bradley and Jill Sehagrin of Levittown, Pa., and Edward and Jane Drumm of Princeton Junction, all on March 7.

Two New Officers Named To Borough Police Dept.

Two officers have been promoted in the Borough police department, as the result of competitive examinations.

Charles W. Davall Jr. has been named the department's new lieutenant, succeeding Lt. Peter Hanley who recently was named captain. Detective John D. Redding has been promoted to patrol sergeant. Both promotions are effective this Wednesday.

The two were selected, Chief Thomas Michaud said, as a result of the department's selection process which includes written tests, evaluation records and interviews with the safety committee.

"We have a good group of officers. The competition is very keen," said Chief Michaud. In addition, Chief Michaud reported his department has a patrolman attending the police academy. His scheduled graduation the end of May will bring the department up to full strength.

Lt. Davall, 34, will be in charge of operations and uniform patrols. Born in Princeton, raised in Kingston and now a resident of Mercerville, Lt. Davall joined the department in January, 1980, and was promoted to sergeant in March, 1986. He holds two degrees in criminal justice - a BA from Stockton College in 1979 and an MA ten years later from Jersey City State College.

Lt. Davall's father is a professor with Princeton University's Department of Public Safety; his mother works for the University's athletic department. His grandfather, Laurence Patterson, was for many years, the Borough Tax Collector.

Sgt. Redding, 39, joined the department in August, 1978 and was assigned to the detective bureau five years later. A resident of Hamilton Township, he has a degree in History and

Charles W. Davall Jr.

English and a masters in Education - both from Trenton State College.

Sgt. Redding also serves as an instructor at the Trenton Police Academy.

Housing and Open Space Focus of MSM Conference

MSM Regional Council will sponsor a conference that will bring together two groups whose goals have often placed them seriously at odds: affordable housing advocates and environmentalists. The goal of "Red Bricks/Green Fields: An Agenda for the Nineties" is to focus the issues and find new policy direction for the years ahead.

The conference will be held Thursday, March 24, from 3 to 9 in Lure Hall, Rutgers University. The conference is the result of an effort begun in January, 1990, to build a "Reds and Greens" (red bricks and green fields) coalition.

The group, which included representatives from 25 environmental, planning and housing organizations, has met repeatedly during the year.

Party for Poole

Friends of Tom Poole, two-term Township Committee, will hold a party for Mr. Poole Saturday, March 23, from 6:30 to 9 at the Hook & Ladder firehouse on Harrison Street.

The bipartisan event will honor Mr. Poole for his many accomplishments on Township Committee and particularly for his service as Fire Commissioner. There will be a catered buffet, music and a cash bar.

"It's going to be a fun evening," says Yolan Arlett, who is making the arrangements along with Barbara Cohen. Tickets are $15. For information and reservations call Lee at 924-7771.

John D. Redding

The conference is designed to serve a statewide group, including environmental organizations concerned with both open space and pollution issues, and not-for-profit and for-profit affordable housing groups. Participation by municipal officials will also strengthen the coalition.

Conference speakers include key leaders from housing and environmental organizations, and the government sector. Following a statement of public policy by senior representatives from the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection, the N.J. Department of Community Affairs, the Governor's Office, the Office of State Planning, and the Legislature, conference participants will break up into workshop sessions to target the issues facing them.

Dinner guest speaker is Richard Carbin, of the Countryside Institute, Barnard, Vt. Mr. Carbin will discuss the coalition-building process between environmentalists and housing advocates in Vermont which resulted in a $10 million joint bond issue. Following dinner, the groups will reconvene for an agenda-setting session to enumerate key issues and decide a future course of action for a statewide coalition of affordable housing and environmental proponents.

Background materials for conference participants will outline the major areas for discussion, including state policies and programs, fiscal implications of affordable housing projects and open space conservation, design principles in projects featuring affordable housing and open space as complements, and local planning regulations.

The conference proceedings will be summarized in a report to be distributed in the spring. The registration fee is $15 per person, which includes dinner and materials. Advance registration is required. For more details, call the MSM office at 452-1717.

Princeton Antiques Show Will Have 35 Exhibitors

The 32nd annual Princeton Antiques Show, one of the longest running antique shows in New Jersey, will begin on Friday, March 22, and continue through Sunday, March 24. Held at Princeton Day School, the Antiques Show benefits the scholarship funds of three women's colleges: Wellesley, Mount Holyoke and Smith.

This year 35 exhibitors, including some new to this show, will be selling antiques, such as furniture and accessories, silver and jewelry. "What makes this show so special," says co-chairman Barbara Broad, "are the dealers. They come from all over, from Maine to Florida to Illinois. And they always bring a wonderful range of quality pieces."

Register to Donate Blood

The Princeton area chapter of the American Red Cross, in an effort to increase the community blood donor base, will register blood donors in Palmer Square on Wednesday, March 27, and Thursday, March 28, from 11 to 2:30.

Most healthy individuals between the ages of 17 and 65 are eligible to donate blood. Donating blood takes about an hour, and individuals can donate as often as once every eight weeks. The Princeton Medical Center donor room is open Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., and Friday from 8:30 to 7.

With additional blood donors, the hospital, which is about 90 percent self-sufficient for blood needs, could become totally self-sufficient. Sign up to become a blood donor on March 27 or 28, or call the Red Cross at 924-2404 for an appointment.

In addition to offerings by the dealers, there will be two lectures given by experts from New York on related topics. On Friday, March 22, at 10 a.m., Nancy Druckman from Sotheby's will speak on "Folk Art in the Marketplace." Janet Zapata, an archivist with Tiffany & Co., will discuss "The Treasures of Tiffany" on Saturday, March 23, at 10.

Antique jewelry appraisals, a popular feature of the Antiques Show, will be offered on Saturday, March 23, from 12:30 to 4:30. Ticket holders may bring in their own items for a verbal appraisal by Diane Lewis, head of the Antique Jewelry Department at Christie's in New York.

A preview is scheduled for Thursday evening, March 21, from 6:30 to 9, with music and a cocktail buffet. Preview tickets are $50. Refreshments will be available throughout the show.

Tickets are available at the door for $7 for the entire show. For further information, call Mrs. Broad, 924-4636, or Sally Schroeder, 737-7170.

Registration Now Open For YWCA Spring Session

Registration is under way for the spring session of classes at the Princeton YWCA, scheduled to begin April 1. Current members may call the YWCA at 497-2101, Monday through Friday, 9 to noon to register. They should have their Mastercard or Visa ready.

The YWCA is offering a wide variety of summer camps for all ages and interests which require early registration, as they fill up quickly. Other programs for kids include Mornings in the Park, one-session art classes, health-related programs for teens, and a mini-golf camp at the Cranbury Country Club.

The adult area is filled with one-session business programs to promote individual growth and help participants make it in the business world. Also offered are tours: the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Longwood Gardens, a Cranbury herb garden, and Backstage at McCarter Theatre, and the opportunity to learn a new language, a new skill, or try a craft class from a selection of classes offered by the Artisans Guild.

As always the YWCA continues to offer a full range of aquatics, health & fitness, dance, and gymnastics programs.

Brochures are available at libraries and grocery stores and contain free coupons to Try-Before-You-Buy. Call 497-2100 for more information. Scholarships for those in need of financial assistance are available.

Family Service Agency Receives Re-accreditation

Family Service Princeton Area has received notice that its agency structure, policies and programs meet the highest standards of professional operation and therefore the agency has been approved for re-accreditation for the next four years.

The re-accreditation study was conducted by the National Council on Accreditation of Services to Families and Children (NCOA) headquartered in New York. NCOA is the independent national standard setting organization for family service and related human service agencies across the country.

To meet NCOA standards, each agency undergoes a detailed and searching examination of its mission, governing structure, policies, programs and staff. In addition an independent community survey is taken to determine

Breast Health Fair

The Third Annual Breast Health Fair will take place on Saturday, April 6, from 9 to 2, at the Princeton YWCA. Sponsored by the YWCA's Breast Cancer Resource Center, this year's fair is dedicated to the memory of former Princeton mayor Barbara Boggs Sigmund, who served as a member of the Center's advisory board.

The Fair is being held to increase public awareness about breast cancer, which now affects one out of every nine women in the United States. Fair attendees will learn about breast self-examination and mammography, including where mammograms can be obtained and the cost involved. Videos and literature providing information about diet, nutrition and resources for the cancer patient will also be available.

In addition, free breast examinations by volunteer physicians will be offered. Women wishing to schedule an exam should register in advance by calling Sue Webb at 497-2126.

how the community views the organization. After the agency submits comprehensive documentation on its operation, two NCOA examiners visit the agency.

For two days, they examine agency facilities, review case records, read personnel files, review administration, board members of staff and relevant representatives of other organizations. The team then files its report to NCOA headquarters where it is reviewed again in committee before final approval and notification.

Each agency seeking accreditation must undergo the same type of examination

PRESENTATION AT NASSAU CLUB: John C. Baker, a Commander in the United States Naval Reserve, center, presented a National Ensign to the club from the battleship USS New Jersey. Mr. Baker, a Princeton native who is executive vice president of Mercer Federal Savings Bank in Trenton, commanded the 92-man Battleship New Jersey Reserve Detachment unit, which was called up in December, 1983, when it was involved in shelling Beirut, Lebanon. Upon his departure in January, 1984, the flying Ensign was presented to him. Shown with Mr. Baker are Warren Elmer, Nassau Club president, and Herbert W. Hobler, program chairman.

Nature Exploration Programs for All Ages

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association has scheduled several programs of nature exploration for various ages at its reserve off Titus Mill Road, Pennington.

Adults and families are invited to an "Exploring the Night" program Friday at 7:30. Owls and spring peepers may be seen and heard, as well as the courtship flight of the woodcock. The fee is $4 for members and $7 for nonmembers.

On Saturday from 1 to 4, there will be a program for ages 9 to 12 to explore a stream.

Participants will learn what a watershed is, and they will take a hike along one of the streams in the Watershed reserve to investigate where it goes. Boots or old sneakers and old clothes are required, because the group will blaze its own trail through brush and brambles, around fallen logs and through muddy streams. The fee is $4 for members and $7 for nonmembers.

The Watershed Association is also offering a preschool program entitled "Turtle Time" on Wednesday, March 20, from 1 to 2:30 for ages 3 to 5. This is an indoor program that concentrates on all aspects of turtles through hands-on activities, including touching the live turtles that live at the Buttinger Center all year.

The fee is $5 for members

Translator of Yiddish To Give Poetry Reading

The Princeton Research Forum and the Arts Council will sponsor a reading by Gertrude Dubrovsky from her translation of a book of Yiddish poetry, Kentucky by I.J. Schwartz. The reading will take place Thursday at 8 at the Arts Council building.

Written in 1918, Kentucky is the first major work of Yiddish literature which deals with America as its primary theme. The book gives an immigrant poet's impression of and reaction to both the Southern landscape and its historical predicament after the Civil War. It also provides information about those Jewish immigrants who move outside the cities where they landed and into the interior of the country.

The central poem, "New Earth," takes an immigrant family through three generations and shows what the Americanization and acculturation process does to Jewish identity. The color and tone of life in Kentucky serve as the frame for the family's story, and for the stories of others who inhabit the same world but are subjects of other poems: hillbillies, outlaws, blacks.

Although America is Schwartz's major theme, Kentucky is hardly known outside of the Yiddish literary world because of the language barrier. However, it is now available in its entirety in English translation, published in 1990 by the University of Alabama Press.

Ms. Dubrovsky, a Princeton resident, is an independent scholar and writer.

New Musical Program For Children at YWCA

The YWCA is introducing several new musical programs designed for babies through children ten years of age.

Wendy Zoeller, new to the Princeton YWCA, is a professional flutist who has used her knowledge of music to create programs for babies and children, jazz lovers and keyboard players. She has taught at the Hoboken-North Hudson "Y" and The Center for the Arts at the West Side "Y" in Manhattan for the past several years.

Ms. Zoeller will begin with two programs for ages 5-10 to be held on Tuesdays, beginning April 9 and continuing through June 11. The first program, "Introduction to Music," from 3:30 to 4:30, encourages children to explore sound and rhythm through singing, musical games, and rhythm instruments. The piano, recorder, and orchestral/band instruments will be introduced.

Students may continue to build their musical talents in a group setting in a program entitled "Continuing the Musical Experience," from 4:30 to 5:30. This program will sharpen children's rhythm and performance skills through musical games, composing, listening and "jamming" together. Call 497-2100 for more information.

Environmental Author To Speak at the Library

Joan Goldstein will discuss her new book Demanding Clean Food and Water: The Fight for a Basic Human Right at the Princeton Public Library on Thursday, March 21 at 7:30. The program is free and open to the public.

Dr. Goldstein was a recent guest on the National Public Radio Program, Radio Times, and will be heard on an upcoming segment of NPR's environmental program Earth Talk. She is a participant in environmental activities in the greater Princeton area, serving on the board of trustees of the D&R Canal Coalition and the Appalachian Mountain Club and as an outings leader for the New Jersey Sierra Club.

She is a writer and social scientist whose work on the environment has spanned more than 15 years. She is a former White House appointee to a technical advisory committee on offshore leasing and the author of The Politics of Offshore Oil. Dr. Goldstein lectures at universities across the country and has written in science and the environment for periodicals including the New York Times.

For more information call the Library at 924-0529.

therapists specializing in pediatric rehabilitation, speech, audiology and both child and adult physical and occupational therapy are available for treatment there.

As the office expands, plans call for the addition of child birth education classes and other out-patient diagnostic services.

At the Sunday open house visitors will have an opportunity to participate in the screening and receive information about all of the services at Princeton Medical Center. Refreshments will be served.

Home Gardeners' School Sets Registration Deadline

Rutgers' 15th annual Home Gardeners' School will be held Saturday, March 23, in the Lure Building on the Douglass College campus. Classes and workshops in 31 separate categories will be offered, including introductory and advanced workshops providing hands-on practice in flower arranging.

New classes are being introduced in urban and community gardening, the nutritional value of exotic fruits and vegetables, and sharing gardening expertise with children. Also available for the first time is a tour of the new Agricultural Museum of New Jersey on the Cook College campus.

Other classes will focus on growing strawberries, blueberries and raspberries, prevention of garden damage by mammals and birds, space-saving garden ideas, selection and care of landscape plants, tree pruning, and gardening in the shade.

Participants can enroll in up to five of the sessions. The registration fee is $20 regardless of the number of sessions for which a person is registered. Each of the flower-arranging workshops is an additional $15, and participants are asked to bring a knife and shears.

A box lunch will be available for $6.

The school is sponsored by Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Cook College in cooperation with the Cook College Office of Short Courses and Continuing Professional Education.

Registration deadline is Friday. Registration forms can be obtained by contacting the Office of Continuing Professional Education, Cook College, P.O.

From the Medical Center, the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine led by Dr. Noel Jennings offers a variety of services at the Hamilton office. Evaluations for rehabilitation and electromyography are performed by physicians while

First 'BABES' Program Launched in the County

Two Mercer Council on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction counselors have launched a new alcohol/drug education program for children called "B.A.B.E.S.," which stands for "Beginning Alcohol and Addictions Basic Education Studies."

"Addictions" prevention experts agree that alcohol/drug information as well as the concepts of self-esteem, healthy decision-making and coping skills need to be introduced to children at a very early age," said MCADA President Kay McGrath.

B.A.B.E.S. presents these concepts to young children in a way they can understand, using colorful puppets and story telling. Children are encouraged to apply positive strategies from the lessons to their own personal concerns.

The program, created 10 years ago in Detroit, is designed to assist children in developing and practicing coping skills, as well as providing them with accurate, non-judgmental information about drug/alcohol use and abuse. The Council is the first agency in Mercer County to introduce the program.

Counselors Noelle Schappell and B.J. Weber are using the program in the Trenton and East Windsor Regional school districts. Educators and parents interested in finding out more should call MCADA Assistant Director Nancy Faherty at 396-5874.

May-Ling Wong will present a slide talk entitled "Camping Safari in Kenya and Tanzania" Sunday at 3 in the Mountain Lakes House, Mountain Lakes Nature Preserve. The talk is sponsored by the Friends of Princeton Open Space and will be followed by tea at 4.

Miss Wong, who lives in New York City, is an industrial investment officer with the Hong Kong Government. Inspired by reading the adventures of Speke and Burton in Africa as a child to want to take a journey by jeep to Lake Turkana in North Kenya, she finally made such a trip in October, 1990.

Her camping safari also covered national parks in Masai Mara, Samburu and Amboseli in Kenya and Serengeti and Ngorongoro Crater in Tanzania. Camping in the natural habitat of the "big five," she photographed herds of gazelles, giraffes, zebras, wildebeests and other wildlife in East Africa.

All are welcome to the slide talk.

Course for Children
In Japanese Language

The Princeton Community Japanese Language School will offer beginners' and intermediate Japanese language classes for children starting April 7. Classes will be held every Sunday from 1 to 4:20 at Palmer Hall, Princeton University. This is a program to provide an opportunity for all interested children to learn the Japanese language and culture.

The school was founded in 1980 with the support of Princeton University and the Ministry of Education in Japan. In addition to a Japanese-As-a-Second Language course for children, the school has classes for Japanese children, area high school students, and adults.

Tuition is $50 per month. A registration fee of one month's tuition is required. Interested persons should call Ms. Sakiko Ono at 275-8444 or Ms. Hiroko Sherwin at 921-2285 as soon as possible.

Educational Seminar Set
By Montessori School

The Princeton Montessori School invites all interested educators, parents and heads of schools to a two-day workshop entitled, "Discovering Children Through Better Observation: Enhancing Your Management Skills."

The seminar will be held Saturday from 9 to 4 and Sunday from 9 to 3 at the Princeton Montessori School, 487 Cherry Valley Road, Montgomery Township.

Paul Epstein will be the workshop leader. Dr. Epstein has been active in Montessori education as an administrator, teacher trainer and Montessori classroom teacher. He has developed and given courses and workshops on techniques in classroom observation. Presently, he is a Montessori instructional specialist with Prince George's County Public Schools, Md.

Cost of the workshop is $25, which includes lunch. For more information, call Ginny Cusack at the Princeton Montessori School, 924-4594.

Hospice Seeks Volunteers

Samaritan Hospice, an organization that assists families with the care of terminally ill patients in their homes, is seeking volunteers in Mercer County.

Volunteers provide companionship and support, complete errands, perform light household tasks, and provide transportation for patients and their families. Each volunteer must complete a special training program.

Other volunteer opportunities are available in the administrative and fund-raising areas.

Samaritan Hospice is a nonprofit organization that provides services in Mercer, Gloucester, Burlington and Camden Counties. For additional information about becoming a volunteer, call Charlotte Hack at the Hospice office, 588-5500.

Jewelry Making Class
At the Paterson Center

The Recreation Department will sponsor a jewelry making clinic for senior citizens and adults in which participants may take home a piece of jewelry that they make.

The one-hour class will be taught by an instructor from Baubles Jewelry Store. It will take place Fridays at 10:30 at the Suzanne Paterson Senior Center. A four-week session and an eight-week session will both begin on March 15.

Participants will learn how to make accessories such as earrings, pins, hair pieces, and a faux pearl necklace. The registration fee includes all supplies. The four-week session costs $42 and the eight-week session, $77.

To register, stop by the Recreation Department at 380 Witherspoon Street or call 921-9480 for more information.

English Author to Discuss Country Society & Gardens

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will sponsor a presentation on Saturday, March 23, at 4, as part of its Fireside Lecture Series.

English writer Caroline Seebohm will talk about two of her books, English Country and Private Landscapes. In the first she discusses the charming and often eccentric society of British country home life. The second details the great gardens of the world, from which she will draw design techniques for the creation of our own landscapes. The program will be held at the home of Cintra Sander, where refreshments will be served.

The cost is $25 per person. All proceeds will benefit the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association. For further information call 737-3735.

Financing an Education
Is Subject of Seminar

How to provide for a college education in an uncertain economy will be the subject of a seminar co-sponsored by four area professional organizations.

The seminar, to be held Wednesday, March 27, from 7:30 to 9:30 will be hosted by Rider College. It will be held in the auditorium of the new School of Business Administration building on the Rider campus.

Co-sponsors include Coopers & Lybrand; The Savino Agency/Northwestern Mutual Life; New Jersey National Bank; and the law firm of Schrager, Schrager and Lavine.

A charge of $5 per family will cover registration, refreshments, and child care. Reservations can be made by calling Mona Carmele at 896-5051.

Charges Are Excessive For Parking Violation

To the Editor of Town Topics:

An experience of mine may make your readers aware of how far Princeton Borough is going these days in its fund-raising from parking violations.

Around 8:10 on the evening of Monday, February 25, I attended the ceremony following Scout Troop 88's yearly banquet. I parked in the lot behind the United Methodist Church, off Nassau Street, but since there were no metered spaces left, and I have a broken foot, I parked as near as possible to the entrance, which was behind one of the stores backing onto the lot.

My car was there until approximately 9:10 or 9:15; indeed, the Scout ceremony ends around 9. On leaving, I found a ticket which looked like a parking violation ticket. Being law abiding, and realizing I had been in a private spot, I promptly mailed off a cheque for $10, which is the amount for all parking violations listed.

Several days later I received an official missive from the Borough thanking me for my $10, but the correct amount should have been $38 dollars for the offence "Abandonment of Vehicle on Private Property?" and I was to remit $26 within two weeks to avoid further action by the court.

Come on, Princeton, when did parking become Abandonment of Vehicle, and how far can you go in your application of the law before it becomes no longer legitimate?

Arts Council's Exhibit Is Moving and Powerful

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter I have sent to the Arts Council of Princeton:

Re: The critique of "To Be Continued ..." by artist Barbara Taylor in the February 13 issue of TOWN TOPICS. I found this to be an extremely moving and powerful exhibit. I related to it immediately upon entering the room and finding my gaze riveted to the circular table with its "round-breast-body" shapes so much like our (women's) bodies.

The statements of pain and triumph by many different women speak the truth of their experiences. Truth can be frightening as it "disrobes the emperor." Thank you for your courage and creation of such beauty and power. I look forward to the "continuation."

I congratulate the Arts Council of Princeton for their willingness to expand our notions of what is art and aesthetics as well as honoring the female in all of us. I will do all I can to encourage the widest audience possible to experience this exhibit.

College Dance Fair 1991
Boon to Teenage Dancers

To the Editor of Town Topics:

A brand new event took place Sunday, March 10 from mid-day to dinnertime in the ballroom of the Princeton Hyatt Regency Hotel. Named in college, or pursue a career in "College Dance Fair 1991," it is dance, were taking class at the the brain child of Judith Leviton, Director of Princeton Ballet where they might be Ballet, and Dina N. Eighteen exhibitors graced the walls of the ballroom, their tables and displays graciously

This idea of a College Dance Fair holds out a hand to dance phers and musicians from the teachers like us and our various institutions which they students, since it brings together represented. We weren't surprised to find all of them good continuing both dance and academic studies.

News of the THEATRES

Storyteller Spalding Gray
Duc at McCarter Sunday

Spalding Gray, a master storyteller and Ohio Award-winner, will deliver one of his full-length monologues, Terrors of Pleasure, on Sunday at 8 at McCarter Theatre.

Terrors of Pleasure is a hilarious and horrifying tale about the realities of home owning and financial responsibility. Mr. Gray describes it as "the story of the most imperfect house in America and the perfect fool who bought it."

A writer, actor and performer, Mr. Gray has created a series of 11 monologues, including: Sex and Death to the Age of 14; Booze, Cars and College Girls; Swimming to Cambodia and Terrors of Pleasure. His latest work, Monster in a Box, which premiered at McCarter last season, opened on November 14, 1990 at the Mitzl Newhouse Theater under the auspices of The Lincoln Center Theater company. After rave reviews from media critics, the four-month run sold out within the first week.

Tickets for the McCarter performance are available at $23, $18, $16, $15 and $13. For reservations call the McCarter box office at 683-4000. The box office is open Monday through Saturday, 9 to 6.

Afro-American Theatre Showcase of New Voices

Playwright, poet and novelist Ntozake Shange, actress Dunitra Vance and the Brewery Puppet Troupe are among the new and established voices in African American theatre who will showcase their latest works-in-progress during Crossroad Theatre's Genesis 1991 festival this month.

The festival will run from this Wednesday, March 13, through Sunday, March 24, with 10 events scheduled, ranging from staged readings of new plays to jazz concerts and a puppet show. The staged readings will be followed by discussions with the playwrights.

Genesis 1991 begins this Wednesday with staged selections from The Love Space Demands, a forthcoming book of poetry by Ntozake Shange, author of the play for colored girls who have considered suicide when the rainbow is enuf. Ms. Shange's reading will be accompanied on guitar by Billy "Spaceman" Patterson, a New Brunswick born and raised musician. Talvin Wilks will direct.

The Love Space Demands will be presented at 8 this Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Oak and Ivy, the story of the 19th-century poets Paul Laurence Dunbar and Alice Nelson-Dunbar, by Kathleen McGhee-Anderson, will have a staged reading Thursday at 8. Andre Robinson Jr., Crossroads' general manager, will direct.

Carry Out & Catering

MASTER STORY TELLER: Spalding Gray returns to do a full length monologue about buying a house, "Terrors of Pleasure," Sunday at 8 at McCarter Theatre.

Life During Wartime, written by Wesley Brown, a professor at Rutgers University and author of the award-winning play Boogie Woogie and Booher T., will be presented on Wednesday, March 20, at 8. Inspired by the 1983 death of graffiti artist Michael Stewart at the hands of police in New York City, the play looks at violence against black youth and the impact of their deaths on society.

Actress Dunitra Vance, who last appeared at Crossroads in Spunk and recently was in the television presentation of The Colored Museum on PBS, will present an original performance piece entitled Danitra Live and in Color! Thursday and Friday, March 21 and 22, at 8. Ms. Vance's work will be heavy on satire, presented in a talk show format with the author portraying the guest, host and audience.

The life-size Brewery Puppet Troupe, one of the country's few African American puppet ensembles, will present Little Davis, A Fantasy in Jazz for children and adults inspired by jazz trumpeter, Miles Davis. Two performances are scheduled for Saturday, March 23, at 3 and 7.

Rounding out Genesis 1991 will be New Jazz/New Brunswick, a community event featuring trumpeter Leslie Ford, co-founder of the New Brunswick Jazz Collective, Sunday at 3. The program incorporates The Jazz History Workshop designed to introduce young audiences to jazz. It chronicles the progression of jazz from its African roots through the present.

The second part of the program features original music by jazz artists from the New Brunswick area, including Leslie Ford, Rendam Schwartz, John Binocelli and Jeanie Bryson.

Tickets to all Genesis events are $7. Seats are unreserved. To purchase tickets, call the Crossroads box office at (908) 249-5560.

from Columbus, Ohio, in its first New Jersey engagement on Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. The program for both performances will include John McFall's Radiant Edges, James Kudeka's There, below, Anton Dolin's Pas de Quatre and Kirk Peterson's Belling the Slayer.

Founded in 1974, BalletMet has grown to a troupe of 24 dancers. It has not only become a major dance force in the midwest, but is rapidly acquiring a growing national reputation with extensive tours to both coasts. BalletMet is also one of the few classical companies of its size in the nation to be licensed to present several Balanchine classics. Serenade, Concerto Barocco and Allegro Brillante are all part of its current repertoire.

Since his arrival in 1986, artistic director John McFall, a principal dancer (and former resident choreographer) for 18 years with the San Francisco Ballet, has added more than 40 new works to the BalletMet's repertoire. In addition to those mentioned above, the repertoire now features works by Lynne Taylor-Corbett, Michael Smuin, David Parsons, and Paul Taylor, as well as ballets by Frederick Ashton and Lew Christensen.

Tickets for BalletMet are $22 and $19. Student tickets are available for $10 with current

Kronos Quartet
"Among performers, history remembers those who substantially changed the art. When the role of late 20th century music comes to be written, it is not the Juilliard or the Guarneri Quartets that will be remembered, it is the Kronos."

The Philadelphia Inquirer

"A virtuosic feat of acting and a luminous portrait of the artist! Miss Atkins brings to the role a great assurance, charm and resonance. With her Virginia Woolf, she joins Hal Holbrook and Alec McCowen at the pinnacle of the monodramatic art. Each is a perfect meeting of actor and subject."

Waldorf School Plans Evening of Eurythmy

The Waldorf School will sponsor an evening of eurythmy, a new art of movement, on Saturday, March 23, at 8 in the Little Theater at Stuart Country Day School.

Presented by the Green Meadow Eurythmy Group, the program will include works ranging from the classics, such as the first movement of the Tempest Sonata by Beethoven, a rondo by Mozart, all the way to contemporary composers. Poetry performed will include works from Prometheus Unbound by Shelley, the Screwtape Letters by C.S. Lewis and an excerpt from The Hobbit by J.R.R. Tolkien.

Eurythmy uses as its starting point the sounds of speech and the tones and elements of music. The eurythmists have developed a vocabulary and bring into movement each sound we hear. But eurythmy is more than just a sign language; it is an ever-changing flow of sound movements filling the space around the performers.

This connection to the space around the dancer is also reflected in the costuming. The tor, Forgiving Typhoid Mary generally loose-fitting opens Friday and runs through March 31 at the Playhouse, 9 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick. It examines the conscience and actions of one woman during the typhoid epidemic that swept through the northeast at the turn of the century.

Eurythmy is a part of the curriculum of the Waldorf School of Princeton, and two teachers from the school, Kathryn MacCormick and Tertia Schwartz are members of the troupe. Tickets may be purchased at the door at $8 per person and $5 for students.

Ms. Parsons appeared on Broadway in Miss Mordrid's Way and in the film Dick Tracy. Also in the cast are Meghan Andrews, Jack Davidson, Harriet Harris, Michael Louden and James Morgan. During the run of Forgiving Typhoid Mary, George Street Playhouse will sponsor a symposium on "Ethics of an Epidemic" in conjunction with the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities. The symposium will be held Saturday, March 23, from 10 to 1. Admission is free and open to the public.

Previews for Forgiving Typhoid Mary begin on Tuesday at 8. Performances run Tuesday through Saturday evenings at 8 and Sundays at 2 and 7. There will be two Saturday matinees at 2 on March 23 and 30, and Thursday matinees on March 14 and 28 at 11.

Tickets range from $18 to $26 with discounts available for students and senior citizens. For further information or ticket reservations, call Ticket Central at (908) 246-7469.

"Bye Bye Birdie" Set By West Windsor High

Remember when poodle skirts and malt shops were in and everybody was watching Ed Sullivan on Sunday night?

Join West Windsor-Plainsboro High School on a trip down memory lane when it presents Bye Bye Birdie as its annual spring musical on Friday and Saturday at 8. Tickets will be sold at the door for $6.

The show features Matthew Chung as Conrad Birdie, the rock 'n' roll singer about to be drafted into the army. The singer's manager and his secretary will be played by seniors Dave Harris and Stephanie Leimbacher.

Birdie turns a small Ohio town upside down with a final publicity campaign which has him bestowing his one last kiss upon teenager Kim MacAfee, played by Liz Salica.

The show will be directed by Dennis Ashton; assisted by Charlie Ashton. The orchestra is conducted by Tony Pappalardo and the show has been choreographed by Tina Vogel. Betsy Gray is in charge of the many costumes. The show is produced by the dramatic arts classes at the high school.

Children's Entertainer Coming to State Theatre

The State Theatre Children's Series will present its fourth and final performance Sunday at 3, when Eric Nagler takes the stage in a concert of homespun musical madness.

Known for his weekly appearances with Sharon, Lois and Bram on Nickelodeon's "The Elephant Show," Mr. Nagler is an offbeat musical entertainer who specializes in down-home musicmaking on some of the world's newest and most peculiar instruments. Tickets are $12, $10, and $8 and may be purchased through the New Brunswick Cultural Center's ticket central, 908-246-7469.

Mr. Nagler's "sewerphone" stands out among the instruments he has created. It consists of 10 feet of plastic drain pipe, a washing machine agitator and a hose nozzle mouthpiece. He plays it regularly in concert, along with other home-made creations and better-known instruments like the fiddle, banjo, mandolin and guitar.

Mr. Nagler has toured extensively throughout North America appearing at children's festivals and family concert events. He has released two award-winning recordings and a video.

Princeton Singers Finds Its Niche In Genre of English Sacred Music

The world of musical performance is often divided into generalists and specialists, with each discrediting the other. Performing ensembles may have a tendency to spread themselves so thin in terms of repertoire that no work is performed with the proper historical accuracy and nuance, or to narrow their scope so significantly that the focus of the ensemble becomes one-dimensional. Rarely, especially in vocal music, does one find a "specialist ensemble"—a vocal ensemble which has focused on one genre of vocal performance and then refined that genre to a higher art form. Such an ensemble is The Princeton Singers, which presented a concert of English sacred and secular music on Sunday night in Richardson Auditorium.

John Bertalot formed The Princeton Singers in 1983 to perform the music which he knows best: the music of the English cathedral tradition. Although this compositional style was at one time fairly well characterized by homophony and contrapuntal styles which accentuated the acoustics of the cathedral, recent compositional trends in English church music have extended the choral reach to include a wide variety of harmonic and melodic styles. The Princeton Singers is adept at performing all of these genres: from the rather dry style of 16th century church music to more complex 20th-century compositions.

The 24 voices of The Princeton Singers perform in mixed quartets, rather than a more usual stage format of all sopranos together, all altos together, etc. This staging achieves a more balanced sound, and can often warm up the collective vocal sound. This vocal warmth in turn can help to alleviate some of the problems inherent in an ensemble which specializes in this type of music, and in which the conductor is seeking a "straight" soprano sound—one without vibrato—while the men's voices are allowed a freer production.

The opening Tristis Est Anima Mea by Orlando de Lassus displayed these contrasting vocal styles; the opening men's sections were well balanced and full of color, yet one wanted to bear more soprano sound. However, as the piece warmed up and the singers warmed to the hall, the overall effect of the ensemble became more balanced. The second piece on the program, Lassus' Surrexit Pastor Bonus, demonstrated some of The Singers' more musical skills, with an especially musical rendering of the text "Alleluia."

Yet More Contrasts

Carlos Gesualdo's O Vos Omnes closed the first set of pieces with yet more contrasts—in dynamics and harmonics which were uncharacteristic of this period of musical composition. The dynamics were well demonstrated by Mr. Bertalot to his ensemble, and the harmonic effects were effectively produced. Mr. Bertalot has obviously trained his singers to render unusual key relationships, and the piece concluded with a nicely tapered cadence.

The second set included secular music by Sir Hubert Parry, which represented a nice programming change for a composer who is most renowned for his sacred music. Although these three works seemed to have a homogenous sound which varied little, the ensemble presented them with close attention to matched vowels and consonant nuance.

When performing in so strict a medium, a pitfall can be for this type of sound to become too dry, with little variety of vocal color. Mr. Bertalot has sought out a wide range of vocal colors within this repertoire, which was evidenced in the three selections by Gustav Holst, S.S. Wesley, and Sir William Harris which closed the first half of the program. The most interesting compositionally was Holst's Nunc Dimittis, in which changes in style were well performed by the chorus. The Harris work, Bring Us, O Lord God, contained an intriguing harmonic ending which was effectively conducted by Mr. Bertalot.

The major thrust of this concert was to present Benjamin Britten's Hymn to St. Cecilia, a significant vocal work based on the poetry of W.H. Auden. This linear and crystalline work is perfectly suited to The Princeton Singers, and Mr. Bertalot found great variety within the text and music. A number of soloists (unfortunately mostly unidentified) contributed to this performance, most notably soprano Astrid Caruso who also performed a haunting rendition of Kenneth Leighton's Lully, Lulla later in the program.

Three Folksong Arrangements

The Singers broke into smaller groups in the second half to present three folksong arrangements by Ralph Vaughan-Williams, and provided an interesting contrast in combinations of singers. The third selection, Loch Lomond, was most noteworthy for its requirement that the sopranos hum in an unusually high vocal range, a feat well performed by these singers.

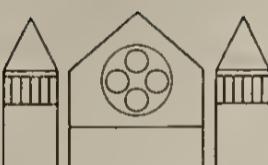

This selection also offered the first showcase of the rich alto sound which is often obscured in music of earlier periods.

One flaw in the concert may have been that the piece which ended the evening perhaps should have begun it: Peter Aston's attention-grabbing Alleluia Psallat, which was by far the most exciting piece of the program. However, this work did set the stage for an encore and a very appreciative reception from the crowd at Richardson.

The Princeton Singers has obviously found its niche with this repertoire, and has achieved the reputation necessary to attract high calibre singers. In a choral field which often seems overwhelming in its repertoire choices, this ensemble will have no trouble charting its course in the performance arena.

The Princeton Singers performs continuously through the New Jersey, New York, and Philadelphia areas. Information about upcoming concerts can be obtained by calling 924-0172.

Varied Program Set By Chamber Symphony

The Chamber Symphony of Princeton will present the fourth concert of its 1990-1991 subscription season Sunday, March 24, at 3 in Richardson Auditorium.

Featured works include Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 25, K503, with Robert Taub as soloist, and Reger's Variations on a Theme by Mozart. Also on the program is Mozart's Overture to Ascanio in Alba and his father Leopold's Peasant Wedding, with hurdy-gurdy and bagpipes.

Leopold Mozart, perhaps the most important influence on the young Amadeus, took enormous delight in creating humorous and colorful musical descriptions. In Wedding, he paints a rustic marital feast using the hurdy-gurdy and the bagpipes.

For the Chamber Symphony concert, Karen Meyers will play the hurdy-gurdy, and her partner Edwin George the bagpipes. Meyers and George perform professionally as the duet "Pan's Fancy," playing mainly Renaissance music.

Reger's Variations was written in 1914, and is perhaps the best-known orchestral work of a composer who has been slow to gain recognition outside his native Germany. Even before his early death in 1916, his music had earned a reputation for being almost too dense, complex, and contrapuntal. At the heart of Variations is the same theme which infuses Mozart's A Minor Piano Sonata, K331.

For many connoisseurs of Mozart, the Piano Concerto No.

SUPPLEMENTAL INSTRUMENTS: Edwin George and Karen Meyers will supply the bagpipes and hurdy-gurdy music called for in Leopold Mozart's "Peasant Wedding" when it is performed by the Chamber Symphony on Sunday, March 24, at Richardson Auditorium.

25, K503, has the breadth and grandeur of the Jupiter Symphony.

Individual tickets, available at $18 regular, $15 senior, and $10 student, may be ordered through the Chamber Symphony office at 497-0020 or through the Richardson Auditorium box office, 258-5000.

"The Sound of Music" Due at State Theatre

Rodgers and Hammerstein's The Sound of Music will be presented Saturday, March 23, at 8 at the State Theatre, 19 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick, as part of a national tour.

The Sound of Music opened in November of 1959 and ran for 1,443 performances. The show won eight Tony Awards, including Best Musical. Its success on stage led to the 1965 release of the film version starring Julie Andrews. The score contains "My Favorite Things," "Climb Ev'ry Mountain," "Edelweiss," "Do-Re-Mi," "Sixteen Going on Seventeen," "How Do You Solve a Problem Like Maria?," and the title song, "The Sound of Music."

The Sound of Music is based on the life story of Maria von Trapp. The musical follows her life fairly closely, except for the addition of the daring escape at the end of the play. The real Von Trapp Family Singers, sensing the impending rise of the Third Reich, simply board ed a train to Italy, never to return to their Austrian home.

Tickets range from $32 to $20. For tickets and information, call 908-246-7469.

Recorder & Organ Music For Concert in Chapel

The Princeton University Department of Chapel Music will present a concert of 17th-century music from the Netherlands for recorder and cabinet organ on Sunday afternoon at 2 in the University Chapel.

The performers will be John Burkhalter, recorder, and Nathan Randall, organ. The hour-long program will feature solo works for each instrument, as well as works for recorder accompanied by organ.

Featured will be several composers well-known in their own time, but little heard today. Mr. Burkhalter will perform selections by Jacob van Eyck (c. 1590-1657). Nearly all of his recorder works are sets of variations on melodies popular in Holland at the time.

Also included will be dance and folk-tune settings for recorder by various composers drawn from a collection entitled The Delightful Cabinet, printed in Amsterdam during the middle decades of the 17th century.

Mr. Randall will perform a set of keyboard variations on the popular tune Mehr junges Leben hat ein Ende by Jan Pieterszoon Sweelinck, an important precursor of Johann Sebastian Bach.

The program will conclude with the Sonata a Flauto Solo e Basso continuo by organist and composer Sybrandt van Noordt (1660-1705).

The general public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

The Chieftains Return To Sing Irish Music

The Chieftains will perform Friday at 8 at the State Theatre, 19 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick.

The Chieftains are a traditional Irish folk ensemble made up of six native Irish musicians, each intent on continuing the history of Irish folk music and culture. The music they perform is drawn from Ireland's long and rich musical heritage. The uilleann pipes, the fiddle, the harp, the bodhran (a kind of drum), the flute and the voice make up the group's instrumentation. And, joining the Chieftains for this performance will be noted Irish step-dancer Jean Butler.

Since their inception almost 30 years ago by leader Paddy Moloney, the Chieftains have explored a wealth of traditional Irish music. Although their early following was purely a folk audience, the range and variety of their music has captured a much broader audience.

The Chieftains have released more than 20 albums, including two collaborations with James Galway. In addition, they have recorded albums with Van Morrison, Mick Jagger, Dan Fogelberg, Art Garfunkel, Nanci Griffith and Don Henley.

For tickets, priced from $14 to $24, call the New Brunswick Cultural Center's Ticket Central at 908-246-7469.

continues with a performance of songs by Mozart Sunday at 8 in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster Choir College campus. Pianist Dalton Baldwin will accompany Westminster voice faculty members Lorna MacDonald, soprano; Lindsey Christiansen, mezzo-soprano; Thomas Faracco, tenor; and Elem Eley, bass.

A member of Westminster's accompanying and coaching faculty, Mr. Baldwin has accompanied many well-known singers. His long-standing partnership with baritone Gerard Souzay has taken him on tours throughout the musical world.

Ms. MacDonald has received numerous awards for her singing. Her performances this season have included an appearance in Hansel and Gretel in Oklahoma and a recital and master class at Tulane University.

Mr. Faracco's recent appearances have included the tenor solos in Berlioz's L'Enfance du Christ with the Vermont Symphony and a performance of Peter Westergaard's opera Mr. and Mrs. Discobolos which was televised on New Jersey Network.

Mr. Eley has appeared in opera, concert and recital throughout the United States. His recent appearances have included a solo recital at St. Paul's Chapel as well as engagements with the West Village Chorale of New York, the Choral Art Society of New Jersey, Princeton Pro Musica, and the Princeton Bach Festival.

Admission to the performance is $10 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. For more information call 921-2663.

Cassatt String Quartet To Perform at Taplin

The Composers' Ensemble at Princeton will present a program of new and classic 20th-century music performed by The Cassatt String Quartet on Monday, March 25, at 8 at Taplin Auditorium in Fine Hall on the Princeton University campus.

The Composers' Ensemble, a professional music performance organization, is under the direction of Steven Mackey, a composer on the Princeton faculty, and Michael Pratt, conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra. The Ensemble's chief educational aim is to present the music of young composers surrounded by other music which influenced its creation.

RUSSIAN THEME: Megan Weeder and Alicia Reed, members of the Greater Princeton Youth Orchestra, rehearse for the concert the orchestra will perform Saturday at the annual GPYO fund raiser entitled "Imperial Coronation Ball." The concert will feature Mussorgsky's "Great Gates of Kiev" and the coronation scene from "Boris Goudnov," as well as "The Processional of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

The program will include two works by Princeton graduate students: String Quartet No. 2 by Theophanis Dymiotis and an as-yet untitled work by Julia Wolfe. Also to be heard are Fumeux Fume by Mr. Mackey, and the String Quartet No. 3 by Paul Hindemith.

A Ph.D. candidate in the University's composition program, Theophanis Dymiotis is a prize-winner in the Benjamin Britten Composers' Competition. His music (primarily chamber music) has been performed in Cyprus, Bulgaria, Finland, England, and the United States.

Ms. Wolfe is also enrolled in the doctoral program at Princeton. She has received commissions from the Koussevitzky Foundation (in conjunction with the Cassatt Quartet), and the Rotterdam Arts Council.

Mr. Mackey has been honored with numerous awards, including a Guggenheim Fellowship.

The Cassatt String Quartet was formed in 1985 with the encouragement of the Juilliard Quartet. Its members acted as teaching assistants to the Juilliard Quartet while participating in the Juilliard School's Young Artist String Quartet Residency Program. The quartet was awarded the first Tanglewood Chamber Music Fellowship and was the only American quartet to win a top prize at the 1989 Banff International String Quartet Competition.

The Cassatt is made up of violinists Laura Goldberg and Muneko Otani, violist Michiko Oshima, and cellist Anna Cholakian.

Latin Academy Students To Perform Hindu Opera

Princeton Latin Academy will perform the Hindu Sanskrit epic opera Ramayana Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 20, 21 and 22 at 1 at the school, Route 518, at Rambling Pines, Hopewell.

The students have written and staged an opera from the epic poem, much as they presented The Iliad and The Aeneid in the past two years.

Area students performing in the opera include Laura Jean Desai of Pennington as Sita, Tom Mather of Princeton as Bharata, Jaya Tuschak of Skillman as Jatayu, Adrian Dahoo of Princeton Junction as Hanuman; and Shane Dorman and Kyle Dorman of Princeton Junction as townspeople and monkeys.

For tickets call Princeton Latin Academy, 924-2206.

THE KING SINGERS, a group whose repertoire ranges from Renaissance polyphony to the Beatles, will give a concert on Monday at 8 at McCarter Theatre. Standing room only tickets are available for $15. Call the box office at 683-8000, Monday through Saturday, 9 to 6.

IT'S NEW
To UsEarly Chinese Antiques
At New Kingston Store

The ambience at East & West, Inc., the new Chinese antiques shop at 55 Main Street in Kingston, is distinctly cosmopolitan. Owners Suet-Yin Cheng, Jean Bonnet and Douglas Rhinehart have formed an interesting coalition, combining elements of their respective Chinese, French and American cultures. None of the three speaks the others' language fluently, but all can communicate to varying degrees in English.

"We do have our share of communication problems," comments Mr. Rhinehart, with a smile, "but it all works out, and I must say I could not find two more honest, compassionate people whom I trust completely. I look forward to coming here. It's fun, not work!"

The three partners opened their shop in November, and it has already attracted a following. "Jean is a real entrepreneur," explains Mr. Rhinehart. "He has a background in engineering as well as business, and he recognized that there was a market here for real Chinese antiques. In addition, Suet-Yin is a doctor in acupuncture, but has many contacts in China enabling her to gain access to authentic pieces. We travel from village to village and buy directly from the people."

"I have worked in several fields myself, including community development in India, with the Red Cross in Korea, as well as with the public school system in New Orleans and the New Jersey state government, but I have collected antiques for 20 years and have an ongoing interest in them. Together, the three of us make quite a team!"

EAST MEETS WEST: High quality Chinese antiques are the hallmark of East & West, Inc., located at 55 Main Street in Kingston. "Our emporium, table, chairs and chests are the epitome of simplicity and elegance, with the earliest pieces dating back to 1540," notes owner Jean Bonnet. The store also carries a selection of porcelain, wood and stone carvings, bronzes and jewelry.

Good Area for Antiques

When the building in Kingston became available, the partners quickly decided to open the shop. "This was a good location," explains Mr. Rhinehart. "In fact, the building was originally a major stagecoach stop between New York and Philadelphia in the 19th century. This is definitely a good area for antiques."

People are interested in them. What makes the Princeton area unique, too, is that many people have lived or studied in China or traveled there. They can identify strongly with China. Perhaps because it's a university town, it is very cosmopolitan and international."

He adds that customers have been very impressed with the quality of the antiques at East & West. "People come in, and they don't really expect to see what we have. The idea of Chinese antiques translates to some people to what I call 'Chinese Restaurant' furniture — carved dragon chairs, etc., but we import top quality antiques here. We have been getting customers from New York and even as far away as Delaware, as well as the immediate area. We've had a lot of word-of-mouth, and we hope to develop a national reputation."

Furniture, porcelain and statuary are specialties at the shop, with pieces dating from 1540 to 1880, including some items from the Ming Dynasty. Mr. Rhinehart notes that customers are often intrigued by the history of some of the pieces on display. "We are able to give people some information about the pieces, a bit of their story, such as what provinces they came from, what their function was. For example, the altar tables were used for displaying Buddhas, and now people are buying them for sideboards. One, dating to 1650, is from a Buddhist temple."

"Also," he continues, "storage chests are also popular with people now. There are two kinds. The more primitive styles were given to the bride and groom as a wedding gift from the groom's family. We have one dating to 1790. The other style is more elaborately carved and was given by the bride's family."

Judges' Chairs

"We also have book tables which were used to display special books, as well as judges' chairs, dating to 1780."

He tells an interesting story about the judges' chairs, which pertains to the quality and durability of East & West's antiques and why antiques are so sought after. "A woman was looking at our judges' chairs the other day, and she said, 'I like them, but should I sit on one?' This is a common misconception. This is a piece, after all, that has been around for hundreds of years, and with care, can be here for hundreds more. Of course, you can sit on them! The construction and workmanship is excellent."

"Also," he adds, "although the pieces are aesthetically beautiful, and people should buy antiques because they admire and love them, they are also a very good investment. They appreciate in value."

In addition to the furniture, the shop carries a selection of porcelain, including vases, cache pots, ginger jars and planters, as well as wood and stone carvings, bronzes, jewelry and chess pieces. There are also assorted contemporary items, such as silk boxes and hand-painted covered porcelain boxes.

Mr. Rhinehart points out that prices are reasonable at East & West, Inc. "We have quality pieces at special prices," he notes. "They are considerably lower than wholesalers in this country because we are able to eliminate the middle man. We buy directly from the farmers and villagers, and we make three or four trips a year to China to look for the antiques."

"We have items anywhere from $2 up to $3200," he notes. "We sell altar tables for $1150, and they retail elsewhere at $5,000 or $6,000."

Services Offered

Service is also very important at the store. Delivery is free, and as Mr. Rhinehart explains, "We advise clients on how to care for their furniture, and we import the best waxes from France. Jean is also trained in interior design and restoration. So, we are in a position to provide a lot of information to customers."

The three partners have been encouraged by their positive reception that they are considering branching out. "Eventually, we plan to import country French antiques, too," says Mr. Rhinehart, "and we are also looking into the possibility of expanding to Dallas, New Orleans and Miami. We are hoping to go national and become known nationwide to interior designers as the primary source for early Chinese antiques."

In the meantime, they are delighted with their Kingston location, and look forward to sharing their special antiques and atmosphere with all visitors to the shop.

East & West, Inc. is open Monday through Friday 10 to 6, Saturday and Sunday 10 to 5 and is closed Tuesday.

The Gap's Selection Appeals to All Ages

The 1960s brought a lot of changes to American society, not the least of which was a revolution in fashion. Casual was in, formal was out, and in particular, denim and jeans seemed to be worn everywhere. This, along with other ideas and attitudes of the time, gave rise to a "Generation Gap," which to some degree divided those under and over 30.

It was in 1969 that The Gap, taking note of the generational differences, opened in San Francisco. Its specialty was denim.

"The feeling is that people grew up with us in the beginning, and now their kids wear Gap clothes," comments Jane Valick, explaining the growing popularity of Gap stores, which now number more than a thousand nationwide and are also in Europe and Canada. Gap Kids and Baby Gap are also spinoffs of the original Gap.

Manager of the Palmer Square Gap, which opened in February, Ms. Valick reports that a cross-section of customers have been coming to the store. "We have men and women, high school and university students — all ages. Everyone likes Gap clothes now. They have a casual look, and they are affordable and personal. They are also very versatile. You can dress them up or down."

Although denim continues to be a specialty (jeans, jackets and skirts), there is also a selection of shirts, blouses (including silk), sweaters and jackets, as well as shorts, leggings, sweatshirts and T-shirts.

"This store is more of a fashion store than some of the others," notes Ms. Valick. "We carry more linens and silks, along with all the cotton and denim, and we also offer a very coordinated look, with everything from socks to hats. We carry classic, basic casual clothes that never go out of style. You can have them year in and year out."

CASUAL & CONTEMPORARY: "Jeans and denim jackets are our trademark. We always sell lots of denim, and we are also known for vibrant colors that attract the eye. We specialize in casual everyday wear. It's reasonably priced, and all ages, from high school kids to adults, like the clothes." Jane Valick, manager of The Gap, which recently opened on Palmer Square, is enthusiastic about the store's extensive selection of casual, comfortable clothing for men and women.

Stripes & Dots for Spring

The spring collection includes an assortment of bright colors, as well as an emphasis on wide stripes and polka dots.

Shorts, shirts and leggings are available in several different polka dot color combinations, and there is a variety of striped sweaters and blouses.

Short-sleeved and long-sleeved blouses in solids and patterns, boxer and walking shorts, polo, T-shirts and sweatshirts, bright floral printed skirts and leggings, and linen/cotton blend jackets are just some of the choices available at The Gap. A full range of accessories, including socks, hats, tote bags and women's sneakers, is also on display.

Ms. Valick reports that many of the sweaters, shirts and jackets are really unisex. Female customers still like the oversize look and are buying many of the men's items. "Lots of girls wear the guy's things," she notes. "Sometimes, they just like the look. We also carry

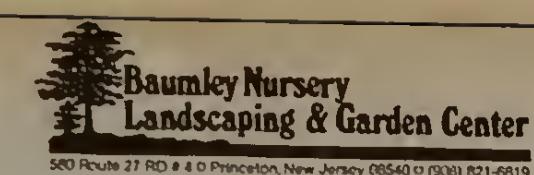

Combined Furniture Sale Set at Barry Interiors

Fifteen manufacturers of upscale contemporary furniture have joined forces to offer area residents a two-day sale of their combined factories' overstock in Forrestal Village this weekend.

The furniture will be reduced from 50 to 75% off retail prices in a Saturday-and-Sunday-only event sponsored by Barry Interiors of Forrestal Village. According to Scott Pitasky, Barry Interiors vice president, the sale will encompass "such a wide selection" that it necessitated 20,000 square feet of additional space in nine showrooms opposite the Barry Interiors showroom.

Mr. Pitasky stated that current economic conditions have left furniture manufacturers with huge amounts of unsold inventory that is being sold during this sale. Included will be sofas, chairs, leather seating, dining rooms, bedrooms, wall systems, and occasional furniture. The manufacturers' representatives will be on hand to help with selection.

Sale hours are Saturday from 10 to 6 and Sunday from noon to 6. For more information, call 243-9099 or (215) 943-8280.

PENTA HEARING CARE

EMILY WHITE, M.A.C.C.C. DIRECTOR

Do you or someone you know suffer from a problem in understanding speech - especially with noise in the background? Do you turn the television or radio up too loud? Do you ask people to repeat themselves or speak more loudly - do you hear speech but not words? Do you experience ringing or buzzing in the ears? If you answer yes to any of these above, then you owe it to yourself or your loved one to seek out professional help.

When a hearing aid would benefit you or the one you love, PENTA HEARING CARE, located in the Princeton Professional Center at 33 State Road (Rte. 206), phone 924-0534, uses the latest in technology for both hearing assessment and hearing aid fittings. The professionals here can fit a hearing aid for you. They are a New Jersey licensed hearing aid dispensers and audiologists and have become well established at this location for 17 years and have been responsible for hundreds of hard-of-hearing people regaining their ability to hear and communicate in a more effective manner. The needs of the senior citizens are very important to the caring professionals here, and at PENTA HEARING CARE, they offer 30 day trial privileges.

An audiologist is the professional who specializes in the identification of hearing problems and in the non-medical rehabilitation of those who have hearing problems. They can assess an individual's hearing to determine if an impairment exists, and they can determine the nature and extent of the problem, and whether a hearing aid might be beneficial.

Once the university-trained certified audiologists at PENTA HEARING CARE determine that you are a good candidate for a hearing aid, they work closely with you, providing the services and hearing instruments required to aid you in better communication with your friends and loved ones. As with all personal needs, particularly such as hearing aids, you want to make sure you are receiving full information on prices, styles, longevity and effectiveness so you can make the best possible choice. They feature repairs on all makes of hearing aids, as well as, of course, the 30-day trial privilege.

The Editors of this 1991 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW, are proud to again highlight and recommend PENTA HEARING CARE to our many readers. We urge you to contact them, we know that you'll be satisfied.

PRINCETON HOUSE

"PROFESSIONAL HELP FOR ALCOHOLISM AND SUBSTANCE ABUSE"

PRINCETON HOUSE would like to assure you that chemical dependency is a treatable disease. However, many who have even vaguely suspect that they have a problem and may need help are frozen by the negative social stigma of asking for help. For this reason PRINCETON HOUSE addresses that fear by conveying a message of hope for confidential assistance to your questions, and help.

State licensed for residential treatment of addictive diseases - PRINCETON HOUSE has served New Jersey for 20 years. Their goal has always been to give hope to those suffering from alcoholism and chemical dependency and also to educate family members and the community about the special problems and needs of this population. They offer programs to help teach families and friends how to help both themselves and the chemically dependent person. Their programs include: Family Programs, Individual and Group Therapy, Family Counseling, Employee Referrals, Emergency Treatment, Case Evaluation, and Co-Dependency Counseling. All these programs have proven exceptionally successful. PRINCETON HOUSE also outpatient services, educational information and support groups.

PRINCETON HOUSE wants people to recognize that chemical dependency is a disease rather than a moral issue and that it is okay to seek treatment. Most importantly recovery is possible, even probable. Even chronic relapse patients have been successfully treated by these programs. For more information contact TANYA MANSI, the director of the Addiction Recovery Program, at 497-3300.

The 1991 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW and its Editors are for the fourth year proud to feature PRINCETON HOUSE. We invite the readers of this review to join us and them in conveying a message of hope to the chemically dependent in our community. PLEASE KEEP THAT NUMBER HANDY!

KENNETH MARSHALL, the owner has over 25 years of experience. He has seen many electrical jobs that do not comply with the National Electric Code. Some of the most common hazards found in homes and community buildings are: Poor Wiring Connection, Improper Size of Wires, Lack of Planning and Poor Workmanship.

If you suspect any of these conditions, or have any questions regarding your next electrical job, call KENNETH MARSHALL ELECTRIC, INC. at 921-1967 or 443-3166. Let the "Professionals In Residential Service" offer their expert service to you and perhaps, AVOID future problems!

At KENNETH MARSHALL ELECTRIC, INC. their philosophy is, an electrical job worth doing is worth doing right...the first time.

The Editors of this 1991 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW for the sixth year again recommend KENNETH MARSHALL ELECTRIC, INC., a company who's highest concern is your safety.

SUMMER AT THE HUN SCHOOL OF PRINCETON

G. GERALD DONALDSON JR. HEADMASTER

Research has shown that students who attend summer schools actually learn faster and adapt better socially in their regular school environment.

THE HUN SCHOOL OF PRINCETON, founded in 1914, offers students a college-preparatory approach to studies and use of unmatched library and computer facilities in its Michael D. Dingman Center for Science and Technology.

The 5-week co-ed summer session is open to residential or day students entering grades 9-12, and day students entering 6-12. Courses are available in reading, writing, mathematics, science, foreign language, history, English as a second language, wordprocessing or other Appleworks computer applications. By improving their skills, students can often enhance their chances at the college of their choice.

THE HUN SCHOOL also offers a co-ed day camp for ages 6-12. Featuring 2 to 5 week sessions, the camp offers archery, arts and crafts, overnight camping, photography, swimming, and tennis.

THE HUN SCHOOL does not discriminate against applicants and students on the basis of race, religion, sex, creed, national or ethnic origin.

The Editors of this 1991 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW wish to again commend New Jersey's HUN SCHOOL OF PRINCETON for excellence in education. For further information call (609) 921-7600.

LAWRENCEVILLE NURSING HOME

"SERVING THE COMMUNITIES SINCE 1969"

At some point in a large percentage of people's lives, the reality of deciding on a comfortable nursing home comes to light, whether it be for yourself or someone close to you. Today, people are not only living longer... they are living more useful and productive lives. But an increasing number of our elders need someplace other than a regular hospital or their home where they can receive residential and full nursing care, and still retain a sense of privacy and independence. The fully trained and licensed staff of registered nurses and support personnel at LAWRENCEVILLE NURSING HOME are always striving to excel in the daily care supervision of their residents and their needs.

This modern and custom equipped nursing care center is designed for only one purpose. That purpose is to provide the residents a relaxed and happy existence. Their rooms are large and airy, well lighted and exceptionally clean. The dietary meals are prepared to suit the individual's personal likes or requirements as prescribed by his or her condition. This center offers 24-hour supervision by a competent and congenial staff and the family atmosphere that always prevails here is "second to none". Also, the intimate artistic surroundings here give off a feeling of warmth.

Physical and recreational facilities are available to each resident and is available on an out-patient basis as well. Each resident is put on a planned daily schedule to assure them of getting the proper medication, correct diet, daily exercise, and plenty of rest. Consultant physicians are on call at all times. A specific unit for the treatment and care of Alzheimer's Disease patients has been added. The center is Medicare approved with Blue Cross and most other insurance plans acceptable.

Your inspection of this fine home-like residential nursing home, located on 5 park-like acres, is invited at anytime or you can contact LAWRENCEVILLE NURSING HOME, at 112 Franklin Corner Road at Princeton Pike, 1/2 mi. from Routes 1 and 95 in Lawrenceville, phone 896-1494 for information.

This 1991 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW for the fifth year highly recommends LAWRENCEVILLE NURSING HOME, where the approach to caring for the elderly is committed to high quality, personalized skilled care in a home-like environment with the staff dedicated to treat each resident with dignity.

SIGN STOP

Advertising on radio, in the paper or even on television is good and helps in business, but the real "stopper" is the sign that identifies your business. If the sign you have isn't doing the job, or if you don't have one at all, we suggest you call SIGN STOP located at the Mercer Mall (behind Casa Lupita) Route 1 in Lawrenceville, phone, 243-9650.

SIGN STOP offers complete sign service from logo designing and planning to complete installation. Plastic, neon, wood, and metal are just a few of the materials they use. Signs range from desk top cards to beautifully designed shopping center entrance signs. SIGN STOP can letter or pinstripe your vehicles using high performance vinyl.

SIGN STOP is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 AM until 6:00 PM. For your convenience they offer twenty-four hour service, and do accept VISA and MasterCard.

When you think of signs, pinstriping or lettering, we, the Editors of this 1991 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW, feel that you just can't do any better than SIGN STOP.

ART

Summer Art Program Open to Area Teens

Applications are now being accepted for the Bristol-Myers Squibb Summer Art Program to be held at Mercer County Community College. The free program, which is underwritten by Bristol-Myers Squibb, is open to 10th through 12th grade students who either attend school in Mercer County, or who are children of Bristol-Myers Squibb employees.

The program, which will run from July 8 to 26, exposes students to art subjects not taught in the school systems. MCCC faculty will teach life drawing, and will offer computer art on the college's state-of-the-art equipment. At the end of the program, work produced by each student will be exhibited in The Gallery at Bristol-Myers Squibb.

Interested students must submit an application, portfolio and two recommendations to

"KISS OF JUDAS," by Lodovico Carracci, will be the subject of a gallery talk by Vera Kohn, museum docent, at the Princeton University Art Museum on Friday at 12:30 and on Sunday at 3.

the MCCC Visual Arts Department by April 19. Application forms and information have been mailed to area art instructors.

For more information, call 586-4800, extension 350.

Trip to New York City Sponsored by Artworks

Artworks is again offering its popular bus trip, "A Day in New York City," on Friday, March 22. The bus will leave Princeton Shopping Center at 9 a.m. and will make three stops in New York City. Travellers will create their own itinerary. The bus, which will deliver passengers and pick them up from one of three prearranged stops, will return to Princeton by 5:30.

Stops will be at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum, and the Museum of Modern Art.

Cost is $19 for members and $26 for nonmembers. For reservation information, call 394-9436.

Exhibits

Douglas Newton, a New York artist who specializes in surrealistic visions of shared inner landscapes, will have eight of his oil paintings displayed at the Chauncey Gallery from March 19 to April 30.

"In my paintings, the ordinary subject matter of suburban America — houses, cars, hills, water, and vegetation — are transformed into symbols of psychic forces," he said. "These objects are often distorted or damaged in some way, or lie half-buried, immersed in water, or glowing with light."

The gallery, at Educational Testing Service, Rosedale Road, is open Monday through Saturday from 9 to 9.

An exhibit of watercolors by Elza Dima will open in the dining room of the Princeton Medical Center on Friday at 4 p.m. with a wine and cheese reception. The show will run until May 16.

Ms. Dima's watercolors have been accepted at juried exhibitions in New York City at the Salmagundi Club, American Artists Professional League (President's Award), and the Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club. Her works have appeared also in many exhibits in New Jersey and have won numerous awards.

"Work by J. Doe," constructions by an anonymous artist, will be on exhibit at the Magenta Gallery, 131 Washington Street, Rocky Hill, beginning with a reception on Friday, March 22, from 6 to 9 and continuing through April 30.

"NATURAL SELECTION," a photograph by Kenneth Kaplowitz, will be included in an exhibition of Mr. Kaplowitz's work, "Natural Selection," at the Norbert Conaldine Gallery, Stuart Country Day School, through April 5.

News of

Clubs and Organizations

Marie-Helene Davies

The Cercle Francais de Princeton will meet Sunday at 4 p.m. in Bowl 5 of the Woodrow Wilson School on the Princeton University campus. Madame Marie-Helene Davies will give an illustrated lecture entitled, "Le Theatre et les Arts au dix-septieme Siecle en France."

A Parisian, Mme. Davies came to Princeton 18 years ago, holding degrees in French and in English, the aggregation, and a Doctorat-es-Lettres from the University of Paris. She was a professor at the University of Paris at Nanterre, and has also taught at the Lycee Francais de New York, at The Hun School, and at Princeton Day School, where she is at present.

Mme. Davies is the author of two books, Reflections of Elizabethan England and Laughter in a Genevan Gown: the works of Frederick Buechner, and co-author, with her husband, professor emeritus Horton Davies, of Holy Days and Holidays: the Medieval Pilgrimage to Compostela.

The lecture is free, and the public is invited.

The Hopewell Valley Chorus elected a slate of new board members at its annual business meeting in January. Elected to serve two-year terms were Celeste Fregara, treasurer; Pam Hartman, library director; and Patrick Crowley, public relations director.

Returning board members are Robin Mastrolola, president; Valerie Hansen, vice president in charge of membership; Carole Thompson, moving from treasurer to finance director; Beverly Monahan, secretary; and Virginia Bachalis, director-at-large.

The chorus, conducted by Ronald Melrose of West Windsor and accompanied by Joe Heise, will present its 32nd spring concert at Hopewell Valley Central High School on Friday, May 3. Selections will include the Magnificat by Charpentier, excerpts from Carmina Burana by Orff; Scottish folk songs, contemporary ballads and a medley of music from Disney cartoon movies.

The Woman's Club of Princeton will meet Thursday, March 21, at 1 p.m. at All Saints' Church.

James M. McCloskey will tell his story of "The Seminarian Detective." Mr. McCloskey was a management consultant who changed careers to attend Princeton Theological Seminary.

Currently working out of a room in an old house where Woodrow Wilson once lived, he runs Centurion Ministries to help right the wrongs of the criminal justice system.

Prospective members and guests are welcome. For more information, call 924-4550.

Betsy Kemeny, director of the Princeton Home Health Aide Service, will tell the West Windsor Retirees Group about Alzheimer's Disease at their meeting, Monday at 10 in the West Windsor library.

Ms. Kemeny supervises about 12 Alzheimer's Disease patients who meet three days a week at one of only two such sites in New Jersey — the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church.

All retirees are invited to attend.

The Lawrence Township Democratic Club will sponwith common interests and learn more about stamps. For more information call 497-YMCA.

The New Jersey Association of Women Business Owners will meet Tuesday at 5 at Great Tastes restaurant, Princeton Shopping Center.

A mentoring workshop, "How to Ask for Assistance from a Bank," will be followed by networking. Dinner and the program will begin at 7. The program will feature a talk on personnel issues for the entrepreneur by Dr. Andrea Schutz, vice president, human resources, Educational Testing Service.

For reservations, call 655-3669.

Washington Crossing Audubon Society will sponsor a bird-watching field trip to Assunpink Wildlife Management Area on Saturday, March 23. The trip is free of charge and open to the public. Participants will meet at the wildlife area, which is south of Hightstown, at 9 a.m., and explore the grounds until approximately noon.

Lou Beck will lead the trip, whose focus will be on migrating waterfowl. Participants should dress for the weather and bring their own binoculars.

Participants will meet at the parking area at Lake Assunpink. To get there, go east on Interstate 195 to Exit 11 (Imlayshtown). Go north on Imlayshtown Road for approximately 1 p.m.

For ticket information, call Marie Cascone at 896-2461 or 895-1543.

The Princeton Senior Citizens' Club will hold an Easter party on Saturday, April 13, at 1 p.m. at the Suzanne Patterson Center.

Members planning to attend must make an advance reservation with Vice President Bessie Christian, P.O. Box 105, Princeton 08542, or phone 924-9564. Reservations will also be accepted at the next meeting which will be held March 22 at 1 p.m.

There will be no meeting on Friday, March 29.

Auctioneer for the Association for Advancement of Mental Health's tenth annual fantasy auction will be Benjamin Doller, vice president of Sotheby's 19th-century European paintings department.

The event will take place April 6 at the Hyatt Regency-Princeton. For more information, call Sue Morris at 924-7174.

Princeton Business and Professional Women will sponsor a fund-raising seminar and networking dinner, "PositivePower," on April 1, from 4:30 to 9, at Scanticon-Princeton. Proceeds will benefit the Alice Paul Centennial Foundation to preserve Paulsdale, the homestead of Alice Paul, the author of the Equal Rights Amendment and a leader in the suffrage movement.

One goal of the foundation is to establish Paulsdale as a conference and training center for women.

Aldonna Ambler will be the keynote speaker. She will explore the different sources and types of power that can be harnessed for personal and professional growth.

Ms. Ambler is a nationally known management consultant, a Philadelphia Business Journal columnist, and a 1990 finalist in Inc. magazine's Entrepreneur of the Year award.

For further information, call Lindsay Forness at 497-1848.

The Princeton Family YMCA Stamp Club has a new meeting date. The club will meet the first Wednesday of each month at 6:30 in the YMCA lounge.

Club members trade, sell and buy stamps. A national stamp circuit is also available to browse through. For those who collect U.S. or world stamps, a local stamp club like this one is a great place to meet people.

Lions Sell Trees

For the ninth consecutive year, the West Windsor Lions Club is assisting the Mercer County Soil Conservation District in selling trees. Five varieties of evergreen trees are being offered for $12 for a bundle of 25, or $20 for bundle of 50. In addition, the Lions are selling a mixture of four different types, totaling 20 wildlife seedlings, for $15.

The five different types of evergreens are Canadian hemlock, white pine, Colorado blue spruce, Norway spruce and Scotch pine. The wildlife varieties are Kousa dogwood, Rosa rugosa, European white birch and Rem red honeysuckle. The Lions have sold 25,075 trees during the past eight years.

The trees must be ordered by Wednesday, March 20, by sending a check made out to "MCSCD" to Trees, 1 Rumford Way, Princeton Junction 08550. They must be picked up at Lucas Hardware in Princeton Junction on Saturday, April 13, between 9 and noon.

2.6 miles to the parking area on Lake Assunpink.

For more information call Mr. Beck at 737-0700.

The English Speaking Union will meet Sunday at 3 in Russell Hall, The Hun School. There will be a guest speaker.

Guests are welcome. Cost is $3.

Sobering Thoughts of NCAA Game against Villanova Quickly Dampen Tigers Win over Loyola-Marymount

The biggest question Princeton basketball fans may have to answer for themselves this weekend is: if you loved the Tigers at 24-2, can you still appreciate what they did this season if they wind up 24-3?

In a season with only one disappointment so far, a 59-53 loss to Santa Clara (after letting a second half lead slip away), Pete Carril's team may be headed for a fall in Syracuse this Friday.

The NCAA Tournament draw is a crap shoot, and the dice were not kind to Old Nassau lost Sunday evening. Leading up to Sunday, the focus has been on how high the Tigers would be placed. Given their 19th ranking in some polls, the optimists talked in terms of a fourth, fifth or sixth seed.

But the NCAA selection committee has always stressed strength of schedule over season's record, and the eighth seed is an honest one. However, the seeding really is not the main concern. If you're good enough to avoid one of the three or four lower seeds, which Princeton obviously was, the key is who you play. A 10th or 11th seed might turn out to be more worthwhile.

If he could have personally placed his Tigers, Villanova is definitely one of the last teams Pete Carril would have chosen to meet in the first round. Though they haven't played each other in 12 years, the two teams had some great games in the seventies. Overall Villanova holds a 21-15 edge in the series that began in 1943, but the teams split their last eight games.

Wildcat coach Rollie Massimino is well aware of Carril's style, and Pete has already summed it up better than anyone else. "If someone lives with you for 20 years, they know where you hide the cookies," he commented Sunday night.

THE MAGIC OF EASTWICK: Princeton's Matt Eastwick, laying in a basket here, played his best game of the season last Sunday, scoring 20 points against Loyola-Marymount. If he has a solid game against Villanova, it will boost the Tiger chances considerably.

(Edwin Park, The Daily Princetonian)

"Frankly, there are a lot of teams I'd have preferred to play. It will be a very tough game. Villanova is steady. They get in a lot of close games. They have a great three-point shooter in that (Greg) Woodward, and a great swing man in that Bridgewater kid (Lance Miller). They are tough and well schooled."

Schedule Strength Helps

Villanova is a perfect example of how far strength of schedule will get you with the selection committee. Playing in the Big East, which is sending more teams (seven) to the tournament than any other conference, the Wildcats finished with a 16-14 mark.

But they finished well, reaching the semi-finals of the grueling Big East tournament before bowing to eventual winner Seton Hall Sunday, 74-62. Along the way they nipped Boston College by a point in the first round, 74-73, and stunned fourth-ranked Syracuse, 70-68, in the quarterfinals. To do it, they rallied from a 16-point second-half deficit.

But for that performance, Villanova might have missed the NCAA cut altogether. Massimino admitted to being nervous before the draw was announced.

"There were a lot of trials and tribulations during the last few weeks, but we stayed together. I told our kids good things happen to good people. But regardless of whether we made the tournament, I am extremely proud of this team."

The eighth seed also doesn't help the Tigers much if they manage to beat Villanova. They would then have to face the winner of the North Carolina-Northeastern game on Sunday. Barring a miracle, it will be the Tar Heels, who earned the top seed in the East Regional by virtue of their impressive 96-74 win over Duke in the ACC championship game Sunday. A win there, and Princeton would reach the "Sweet 16" round, a goal some thought they could well achieve before the seedings were announced.

The best thing that can be said for this placement is the team was put in the East Regional for the second time in three years. It played in Providence two years ago in the memorable 50-49 loss to Georgetown. Last year it lost to Arkansas by four points in the Southeast Regional.

But Carril and many Princeton fans, who will watch the game on television anyway rather than travel to Syracuse, would opt for a longer trip and a different opponent in a second. How about playing sixth-seed Pittsburgh in Atlanta, eighth-seed Arizona State in Atlanta (a spot drawn by ninth-seed Rutgers), seventh-seed

Iowa in Minneapolis, seventh-seed Virginia in Salt Lake City, sixth-seed New Mexico State in Tucson? All these and a few more would have been preferable, and would not have put Princeton up against the top-seeded team in that regional bracket in the following game.

After all this the question still remains to be answered. How much of a damper will a loss to Villanova put on an otherwise glorious season? The answer here is, if the Tigers give a good account of themselves in Syracuse, Princeton fans should swallow their initial disappointment and realize what has been accomplished since last November.

The 24-2 record is the best ever achieved in regular season by any coach. The 14-0 league mark has not been achieved since 1976. Win or lose in Syracuse, this team deserves to be remembered for what it did in 26 games, not just one.

Tigers Rout Marymount In Sold-Out Jadwin Gym

No longtime observers of the Princeton basketball scene could remember anything quite like it.

Sunday afternoon Jadwin Gym was packed to overflow, with 7,735 fans (probably the largest crowd ever, as bleachers from the baseball field were also brought in) roaring their approval as the Tigers dominated Loyola-Marymount, 76-48. CBS television was there, and that prompted a Mardi Gras atmosphere among the thousands of University students in attendance.

They came in all manner of Orange and Black, not only in clothes, but painted on their faces as well. They came bare-chested (six members of the football team) with the letters C-A-R-R-I-L painted on their chests and T-I-G-E-R-S on their backs. They waved pompoms, banners, signs, carried bed sheets with messages around the floor, and did a Triangle Show kickline.

This game, a late addition to the schedule last fall, was the perfect send-off for the Orange and Black, which finished its Ivy season on the road the first weekend in March. If the Tigers had somehow lost the Ivy title, it would have been meaningless, but thankfully that did not happen.

Instead, the game was both a welcome warm-up for the NCAA Tournament (in prior years the Tigers have gone almost two weeks without playing before meeting their first-round opponent) and a final chance for most Princeton fans to show their appreciation in person for the outstanding season.

Game Time Is 9:52

The Princeton-Villanova game will begin at 9:52 Friday night in Syracuse's Carrier Dome, and be carried live on Channels 2 and 10.

Unlike the past couple of years when ESPN carried the first and second round games, CBS, which has the television contract with the NCAA, has decided to televise those as well. The network had sold the rights to ESPN in previous years, but when the ratings proved to be good, CBS decided to keep the games for itself this time.

It obviously sees the Tigers-Wildcats as a prime time attraction, and the contest will be shown to most of the country. Other games beginning at the same time, such as DePaul-Georgia Tech will get regional coverage.

Two years ago ESPN spotlighted the Princeton-Georgetown contest, giving it full coverage. But last winter, it joined the game between the Tigers and Arkansas at the start of the second half.

If there was any worry that Loyola-Marymount would spoil the party, it was short-lived. This game was billed as the nation's highest scoring offense against the stingiest defense, and it was no contest.

Averaging more than 100 points per game, the Lions were held to 18 in the first half. Their final total of 48 was within six-tenths of a point of what Princeton had been allowing this season. Running pell-mell up and down the floor, the visitors never got in any kind of a groove.

They rarely set up before shooting, launching shots that had as much chance of being air balls as baskets. They made only 19 of 48 attempts from the field, and four of 14 from three-point range.

If the offense was chaotic, the defense was worse. Attempting a four-man press, Loyola managed to create no more than three or four turnovers the entire game. But when Princeton broke it, the Tigers often were rewarded with an easy two points off a fast break.

That was fortunate, because the Orange and Black couldn't buy a three-point basket for a long stretch of the contest. After Eastwick hit one to start the game, Princeton missed its next 15 attempts. Fortunately, the Tigers were hitting enough from two-point range to keep in command. Their final total of eight three-pointers in 28 attempts was one of their poorest showings of the season. Overall, they shot 28 for 57, just under 50 percent.

Princeton led from the start, and pulled steadily away, leading by 38-18 at the half. Matt Eastwick, Chris Mooney and Kit Mueller led the offense in the first half. Mooney scored all his seven points before the intermission.

In his farewell performance in Jadwin, Mueller had one of his typical outstanding games. He scored 21 points on eight for eight shooting, assisted on nine other baskets, and grabbed six rebounds. He was the steady force the whole game, helping to bring the ball up the court against the press.

Eastwick came alive with a 20-point effort on eight of 10 shooting, a welcome sight, especially as Chris Marquardt was ice cold, hitting one of six tries. Mike Brennan tallied just two points, but his floor play was excellent, and at only 6 feet, he is the team's best rebounder after Mueller. He had six on the afternoon.

Carril was able to clear his bench in the second half, making sure all his seniors got some playing time in their final home appearance. Troy Hottenstein (eight points), Matt Henson and Jerry Doyle joined Mueller on the floor, and Carril took them all out together near the end to a standing ovation from the crowd.

Given a home season that featured just seven Ivy opponents, plus a third-rate Elizabethtown team, Princeton fans got a treat that will be remembered for a long time. It may be a while before Jadwin sees such a show again.

Trophy Winners Honored At Sailing Club Dinner

Laser and Sunfish 1990 fleet trophy winners will be honored on Saturday when the Carnegie Sailing Club holds its annual meeting.

Laser winners are Knud Christiansen, first place; Angelo Ascione, second place; and Dick Jesser, third place. Sunfish winners are Walt Gibson, first place; Bonnie Norris, second, and Joel Johnson, third. The Walt Jefferson Memorial Trophy will be presented to Laura Carlson, the Inter Fleet Trophy to Mr. Jesser and the Sunfish Daggerboard Trophy to Mr. Gibson.

Laser and Sunfish races on the Lake will begin March 31 and continue through mid-June. The fall season will start after Labor Day and continue through Thanksgiving.

The Club invites all interested sailors to attend its annual meeting which includes a pot luck supper, the election of new officers for 1991 and planning the spring season.

38 Young Pitching Staff Will Have to Mature Quickly, If Princeton Baseball Team Is to Challenge for Title

If it's good pitching more than anything else that wins baseball games, the fortunes of this year's Princeton team are as uncertain as next week's weather.

The Tigers, who lost three of their top hurlers, Matt Noone, Joe Sawyer and Dan McPhee, to graduation, will be counting on several underclassmen to step up and get the job done, something they didn't do very well last spring. Beyond that, the team will rely on speed rather than power to produce runs.

If it all comes together coach Tom O'Connell's squad could challenge for the Eastern League title, which it lost won six years ago. Since then, the Orange and Black has been more than competitive, winning more than 20 games three consecutive seasons. A year ago it ended with a 23-18 mark, and, with a strong finish, garnered a second place tie in the EIBL at 11-7. Penn won the championship for the second year in a row.

As usual, O'Connell's team will head south for a week of play in warmer temperatures, beginning this Saturday. The Tigers will play 11 games in eight days in the Orlando area, facing opponents such as Illinois-Chicago, Missouri, Vermont, and Central Florida.

The heavy schedule will give O'Connell and his assistants plenty of time to evaluate this year's personnel. The first home game will be Thursday, March 28 against Rider. The EIBL schedule will open April 6 and 7 at Yale and Columbia.

Butterfield Is Back

The pitching staff will have one starter with solid credentials. Junior lefty Kevin Butterfield started six games last spring, compiling a 4-2 mark with a 3.13 ERA.

Two sophomores will be hoping to nail down spots in the rotation, but must show some improvement. Todd Taylor was 2-4 a year ago with a 3.96 ERA, while Matt Iseman started five games, but ended with an 0-1 mark and a 3.86 ERA.

The fourth spot is wide open with senior Rob Fedder, sophomores Harry Guthrie and Frank Nastanski, and two freshmen — Michael Cicero and Jason Gorman — all competing for it.

Senior co-captain Brian Zirin will be the closer out of the bullpen. He has plenty of experience, but will have to lower his 5.40 ERA to be effective this season. With the success of the starters a year ago, he did not see much action.

Sullivan Anchors Infield

A starter in 40 of 41 games in 1990, Sean Sullivan will be back to take charge in the infield. One of the top fielding shortstops in the league, he was a first-team all-EIBL selection. The junior hit .267, with eight doubles and two home runs.

With the graduation of Danny Palmer, the second base job should be locked up from the start by sophomore Daniel Puskas. He began the season behind Danny Palmer in '90,

Sean Sullivan
Strength in the Field

Jeff Schweizer
Skill at the Plate

Kevin Butterfield
Talent on the Mound

but had won the starting nod by the middle of the season. Puskas hit .254 in 34 games.

Like his brother Matt, junior co-captain Peter Noone is one of O'Connell's most versatile players. He was used mainly as the designated hitter last spring, but now is the leading candidate to play first base. In addition, he is also capable of playing third and can also make him a fixture at third base for his entire college career, and O'Connell thinks he

The outfielders will supply most of the power on this team. Centerfielder Jeff Schweizer had an outstanding rookie season last year, leading the team with a .331 average. Blessed with great speed and an excellent throwing arm, Schweizer will be drawing favorable comparisons with Dan Arendos, '86.

Another sophomore, John Rivers, also had a productive year as a freshman outfielder. He batted .264, and led the team in stolen bases, going a perfect seven for seven. Like Schweizer, he is capable of playing all three outfield positions.

Senior Richey Nash will be the starting rightfielder, but also could see some time on the man Tim Taylor, an all-state pitcher mound. He swings a big bat for the Tigers, with four doubles, two triples and three home runs included in his .275 batting average.

Junior Wade Wilson, who has good speed, will also vie for playing time in the outfield, and is one of the candidates for designated hitter. A freshman prospect, Chris Samway, an All-Dade County selection from Miami, will be used in reserve.

Ed Hockenberry ended a fine career as catcher last May, and a pair of junior understudies will vie for the starting job. However, with back-to-back doubleheaders most weekends, both Scott Hayes and Kevin McGrath will see plenty of playing time. Hayes started 15 games a year ago, hitting .256.

McGrath saw far less action, but has one of the strongest arms in the league. Here, too, a freshman could make his mark early. Todd Fausnaught will be given playing time, and could challenge for a starting spot.

There's plenty of team speed, markedly less power, and decent defense on this Tiger team, but pitching in those seven-inning league doubleheaders will determine how far the team goes in the title chase.

Tigers' Burke Finishes Fifth in NCAA Mile Run

Princeton University's Bill Burke ended a fine season with a fifth place finish in the mile run at the NCAA championship in Indianapolis this past Saturday.

The 120-man final field included some exceptional runners, including Mount St. Mary's Peter Rono, the 1988 Olympic champion, and pre-race favorite Johan Boakes of Arkansas. Burke's strategy this season has been to seize the lead early and try to run away from the field, but the senior miler was incapable of doing so against this exceptional field.

He took an early lead, but a pack of runners remained right behind him until the final lap. At that point, he was passed by Indiana's Bill Kennedy, the eventual winner, and three others. Kennedy survived a challenge by Rono, and won the race in 3:58.11.

Burke's fifth place time was 3:59.70, his second career time under four minutes. "I did as well as I expected," he said. "I decided that I would take the pace out really hard and make the best guys pass me to win."

Another Princeton participant in the championships was junior Jay Richards, who finished 13th in the high jump with a leap of 7 feet, one-half inch. Richards had cleared 7'3 at the Heptagonals two weeks ago, but missed three attempts at 7'2 1/2.

He nearly cleared that height on his first attempt, but just knocked off the bar with his foot on the way down.

"In mid-air I thought that I had it made," Richards said. "But I got a little complacent and I didn't get my legs over the bar far enough."

Tiger Lacrosse Now 2-0 With Win over Bucknell

After beating Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, you might expect the Princeton lacrosse team

Bill Burke
Finishing with a Fifth would suffer a bit of a letdown against Bucknell last Saturday in Lewisburg, Pa.

If there was one, it was virtually unnoticeable as the Tigers rolled over an inexperienced Bison squad, playing its first game, 17-1. Scoring 55 seconds into the contest, the Orange and Black had a 3-0 lead at the end of one, and the home team had only two shots on goal. It only got more one-sided from there.

Tri-captain Justin Tortolani scored the first goal on a nice assist from freshman Kevin Lowe. Later in the period tri-captain Chris McHugh and defenseman John Schroeder each tallied unassisted goals.

The rout was on in the second as six players scored to raise the score to 9-0 at the half. These included the third tri-captain, Andy Moe, and sophomore John Burstein.

Ed Calkins came away with a hat trick, scoring all three goals in the second half. Moe, Burstein, Tortolani and McHugh each added another, and Lowe, Torr Marro, Mal Meistrell, Jim Todd, Dave Singer and Ryan Fanzone, all scored one apiece. The freshmen continue to make a big contribution with Lowe and Taylor Simmers contributing five assists between them.

Coach Bill Tierney got everyone into the game, including all four goalies, none of whom saw much action. Scott Bacigalupo made two saves, Jim Ardrey one, and David Schefferman and Guy Ardrey weren't tested.

"If there's one big positive, it's that everyone got to play," said Tierney.

Princeton had upped the margin to 10-0, before Bucknell managed to avert a shutout with its only goal, when an attackman managed to sneak by game. They were figuring this Tiger defense. However, to be another warm-up game Princeton roared back with two more tallies in that period and which will be considerably another five in the fourth.

This past Tuesday, the Tigers were scheduled to play another second-tier opponent, Lafayette, in their first home game. They were figuring this the host team in the finals on Sunday. Loyola was ranked second in the nation last week, but lost to third-ranked Virginia over the weekend.

Girls' Soccer Tryouts

Tryouts for positions on a Princeton Soccer Association-sponsored traveling team for girls born in 1982 or after will be held Saturday from 11 to 12:45 at the Washington Road soccer fields off Washington Road.

The team will play home and away games with teams from other communities on Sundays. Any girl born in 1982 or after is eligible conditional on participation also in the Saturday morning Princeton Soccer Association house league.

For more information call 924-9150.

Saturday will find Old Nassau back in Baltimore for the Loyola Tournament. They'll face a dangerous Penn State squad in the opener, and if victorious would probably meet the host team in the finals on Sunday. Loyola was ranked second in the nation last week, but lost to third-ranked Virginia over the weekend.

Hun Heads for Florida To Hone Baseball Skills

Last year, the Hun School baseball team did not make it to Florida for some pre-season drills and competition and finished with a 10-7 record. Not bad, but compared to the standard that coach Bill McQuade has established at Hun — where he starts his 20th year as head coach — not a wholly satisfying campaign either.

This year, Hun will head south again. McQuade, his three-man coaching staff and the Raiders will spend the week of March 16-23 in Florida. "We'll try to get in about four ball games and then come back up here for the second week when we have three or four scrimmages set. Weather permitting, we should be able to get in a lot of games before the opener," said McQuade. Hun will open its season April 2 against Plnry.

Hun lost four of its top five players to graduation — shortstop Mike Vogler, catcher Ricky Uhr, first baseman Cecil Boone and third baseman Mike D'Allegro. He has a lot of key holes to fill, concedes McQuade. But on the basis of a good returning nucleus led by this year's co-captains Tom Chicuccio and Matt Hyldahl, some new faces and those up from the Jayvees, McQuade is quietly optimistic about the new season.

"If the pitching comes around, I think we can do very well," predicted McQuade. "I don't know what the number of wins or losses will be but I think we'll be competitive. I think it will turn out that we have a nice ball club; I'll be disappointed if we don't."

Pitching will be the biggest question mark, says McQuade. "We have to find three who can put the ball over the plate." A close second is finding someone to replace the highly-capable Uhr behind the plate. Uhr, in fashioning a great season behind the plate, was rewarded — deservedly so, said McQuade — by being named to the second-team All Prep School Team.

Hun also suffered offensively when it lost the big bats of Uhr, Boone and Vogler. However, McQuade has always stressed hitting, works hard with his players on that aspect of the game and, as a result, Hun has consistently been a good-hitting team. This year should be no different.

Seniors on the team are Chicuccio, Hyldahl, Matt Radtke, Dave Karandikar, Scott Metzger, and Chris Hill.

"There is no reason not to expect another good year offensively and defensively from Tommy Chock," said McQuade. A superb player, Chicuccio will anchor the infield at second base.

Hyldahl is a fixture in center-field but McQuade says he also has plans to break the senior captain in as a pitcher. "He'll get some experience in Florida. So far, he looks pretty good. He throws strikes."

An outfielder last year, Radtke is headed for first base to fill the big shoes of Boone; Karandikar, who saw only spot duty last spring, is fighting to nail down the starting berth at third while Metzger is another infield candidate who may wind up in the outfield. Last year's designated hitter, the much-improved Hill, is battling junior Andy Aldi for the starting right-field slot. Aldi came on toward the end of the season last year when he broke into the lineup.

Two post-graduate candidates are left-hand hitting John Fleet, described by McQuade as "a solid ball player from a small school in Virginia," and Chris Hayman from Notre Dame, who also swings from the left side. Hayman, said McQuade, suffered a knee injury his sophomore year but plays the infield very well.

Versatile Danny Wilson

Danny Wilson heads a list of returning Juniors. Wilson, reports McQuade, has grown a lot and has a nice arm, which is why he hopes to install him behind the plate. If the move doesn't pan out, Wilson will return to third base. The versatile Wilson is also one of the team's better pitchers, says McQuade, and a good clutch hitter.

Kevin Shaffer is an infielder who has good speed, "puts the bat on the ball well," and, for now, is slotted at shortstop. He may end up elsewhere. Soccer player Steve Kamnitsis has got the tools for baseball and can play, says McQuade. "He's a pretty darn good outfielder."

Olin Wilf was a catcher on the Jayvee squad. Steve Uhr, younger brother of Ricky, is a candidate for first base or the outfield while newcomer Jeremy Skule, an end on the football team, "is a good solid athlete who will be in the lineup somewhere," says McQuade. Skule is one of the team's pitchers and can also play first or the outfield.

Another newcomer is quiet, tall Rick Zoffinger of whom McQuade says, "I'm anxious to see him down in Florida."

"I think we got a blue chipper. For a sophomore he's very talented," commented McQuade of Sam Borale, who comes to Hun from Rutgers Prep. Borale needs a little work on his hitting but is a good pitcher and can also play third or the outfield — another one of those will-be-in-the-lineup-somewhere players.

A lone freshman candidate is Matt Keenan, who is vying with Shaffer to play short. Although Keenan weighs only 110 pounds soaking wet, says McQuade, "the kid can field. He is a very talented freshman."

Skule, Borale and ?

Skule and Borale appear to be set as the two top mound starters. Will Hyldahl or Wilson work in as the vital third starter or by using either one will McQuade weaken his defense?

As McQuade struggles to fill in the blanks, he will have a lot of help. His longtime able assistant and onetime lineman on the Yale football team, Bill Stout, returns for his 17th season. Lou Watts, a former professional minor league player, who McQuade figures has 47 to 48 years experience, also returns.

This year, McQuade reports he welcomes another staff member who will coach the Jayvee team. Twenty-two-year-old Tom Burke is a former three-year player and captain of the Dickinson College baseball team. "He knows the game, he loves the game and he relates well to the players," said McQuade. (It is doubtful that anyone loves the game more than McQuade.)

All four will be with the team in Florida. With that depth of coaching talent, look for the Hun nine this year to be competitive indeed.

The Ninth Time Around For Horton Cup Here

The ninth annual Horton Cup Tournament, a season-ending get together for area hockey clubs, will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Princeton Day School rink.

The eight participating teams are divided into two groups. In one are the Princeton Hockey Club, the Princeton-based Central Jersey Hockey Club, Chester City and North Carolina; in the second, Beacon Hill, Essex Hunt Club, Wissahickon and Valley Forge.

Rivals Princeton Hockey Club and Central Jersey were the tournament co-champions last year. Central Jersey won the event in 1988 and '89 and PIIC claimed the title in 1986.

On Saturday afternoon, PHC and Central Jersey will meet for the third time this year at 1:30. At 6, PHS will oppose Chester City, while Central Jersey and North Carolina will meet at 7:30.

Open Skating Competition To Be Held at Baker Rink

The Princeton Skating Club will hold its sixth annual Princeton Open Skating Competition March 16-17 at Baker Rink on the Princeton University Campus. The event is free and open to the public.

Saturday will feature free-style events which will run from 8 to 8; Sunday will feature dance events from 1 to 7.

This year's event showcases the talents of more than 180 skaters from New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania. One of the highlights will be the Junior Dance event on Sunday. Competing in this event will be Cranbury's Christina and Mark Fitzgerald who recently finished third in the junior dance division at the Eastern Skating Championships.

Rider College Announces Lunch Box Lecture Series

To celebrate the fifth anniversary of Rider College School for Continuing Studies' Lunch Box Series, five free lectures will be presented. All lectures will be held between noon and 1 in the Fireside Lounge of the Student Center. In honor of the anniversary, dessert will be served.

"Economic Effects of the Persian Gulf War on Our Nation and Region" will be presented by Dr. Herbert Gishlick, economics, on Tuesday, March 26. While wartime periods are normally associated with a robust economy operating at full employment to meet military and civilian needs, Dr. Gishlick asks if the current situation represents an exception to this rule. He will also discuss the short- and long-term economic effects of the war.

Officers Are Elected By PMC Medical Staff

Dr. Robert B. Berger, a radiologist at Princeton Medical Center, has been elected president of the Medical and Dental Staff of The Medical Center at its annual meeting.

Dr. W. Thomas Gutowski, an orthopedic surgeon, was elected vice president. Dr. Alan Feldman, an internal medicine physician, was elected secretary, and Dr. Peter C. Tierney, a family practice physician in Plainsboro, was elected treasurer.

Elected to the executive committee were Dr. Lucius D. Clay, a surgeon; Dr. John M. Cotton, past president of the Medical and Dental Staff, a pediatrician; Ricardo J. Fernandez, a psychiatrist; Dr. Kenneth H. Goldblatt, a pulmonologist; and Dr. David J. Rose, a gynecologist.

Martin Baker, Anne Bracy, Roger Kang and Ruth Williams, students of Dr. Victoria Ellis, scored above the ninetieth percentile on the National German Examination. They are eligible for an all-expense paid trip to Germany.

Five math students received a score of 100 or better on the American High School Mathematics Examination. Those who qualify to take the American Invitational Math Examination include: David Goldberg, Li-Yun Kung, Michael Goldberg, Daniel Fernholz and Rachel Kadel.

The literary work of twenty-one students has been accepted by "Aspirations", the literary magazine of Mercer County Community College. Nineteen of the students wrote their selections in Writing Workshop. The writers are: Brian Bishop, Michelle Branham, Michelle Brophy, Mathew Curran, Kate Darnton, Chris Dreyling, Sharalyn Durkee, John Hartmann, Alicia Kahn, Drew Massie, Kyle O'Donnell, Jason Rosenhouse, Debra Solomon, Anna Tobia, Lea Tucker, Jason Tullis, Carolyn Vo, Craig Webster, Christel Wiener, Elise Wilson and Virgine Zumbrunn.

U.S. History students of Linda Cramer shared foods of their native country at a recent luncheon as a project on immigration. Foods of Mexico, Guatemala, Haiti and Italy were enjoyed by Regine Andre, Yaagul Davis, Keith Esposito, Gabriela Gramajo, and Julius, Charles and Joaquin Monge.

The African Studies class of Greg Hand was enriched by two speakers: Richard Greene, development consultant, addressed the development and modernization of Africa; Dr. Gbola Oni of the Office of Population Research of Princeton University discussed Nigeria. The USSR classes of Greg Hand and Marylu Huchet were addressed by: Olga Grinsfeld, mother of a PHS student, who related experiences in the USSR; Dr. Grigory Dimitriev, Academy of Pedagogical Science, who spoke on the democratization of Soviet schools.

The PHS String Quartet, under the direction of Robert Loughran, performed at the inaugural reception of Senator Bill Bradley in Washington, D.C. Mr. Loughran was also invited by the Bucks County Music Educators Association to be guest conductor of the Orchestra for the Fortieth Anniversary Bucks County Music Festival.

Ralph Heyman, teacher of Social Studies, published two articles in the Peer Facilitator Quarterly. He presented a secondary peer helping proposal and an argument for receiving course credit for peer work. Other teachers who have recently published include Ethel Wood and Judith Caccavale. Mrs. Wood is the author of a study guide for the AP US Government and Politics Examination; Ms. Caccavale published an article on the Ballantyne House and an article on outstanding New Jersey restaurants in the Newark Star Ledger.

PEOPLE In the News

Kenyon College freshman Andrea Gonzalez-Lavin, daughter of Julie Gonzalez-Lavin, Lawrenceville Road, and Lorenzo Gonzalez-Lavin of Huntingdon, W.V., a graduate of Princeton High School, has been awarded her first varsity letter as a member of the Ladies' soccer team.

The Ladies completed the year with an overall mark of 8-9-1 and placed sixth in the North Coast Athletic Conference with a record of 2-5-1. The Ladies posted conference victories over Earlham College and Wittenberg University. They also posted six shutouts on the year.

also re-elected to a three-year term on the foundation's board.

Carolyn B. Aron, of Princeton, has been appointed program director at Artworks. She will be responsible for developing new — and maintaining ongoing — educational programs, and will oversee classes, workshops, lectures, trips, outreach programs, and some exhibits.

Ms. Aron recently received a master's degree in art history at Rutgers University and spent several years as the arts editor of New Jersey Monthly magazine.

Luc Y. Murphy, 138 King George Road, Pennington, has received a master in science in physics from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y.

Linda Troeller, of Lawrenceville, an artist and photographer, will receive a New Jersey Women of Achievement Award from Douglass College and the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The awards are presented to women who have made outstanding contributions to such diverse fields as the arts, civil rights, education, and the law.

Linda Troeller's photo-collages and photo exhibits have been displayed all over the world. Her recent major project, "TB-Aids Diary," looks at the parallels between the discrimination AIDS patients experience today and that experienced by tuberculosis patients in the 1930s.

jeira, 5 Ivy Lane, Belle Mead, students at Lehigh University, will be featured soloists in a concert by the school's Jazz Ensemble and Jazz Band.

The Central New Jersey chapter of the American Jewish Committee will honor Walter F. Gips Jr., 92 Brookstone Drive, with the 1991 Philip Forman Human Relations Award at its annual meeting on Wednesday, April 24. The event will take place at the Green Acres Country Club in Lawrenceville at 6 p.m. Dr. Arnold Gordon, Linda Meisel and Ira Silverman are the dinner chairmen.

Mr. Gips received his B.A. degree from Yale in 1941 and his M.B.A. with high distinction in 1943 from Harvard Business School, where he was a Baker Scholar and a member of the Century Club. Following World War II service as a Captain of the U.S. Army, he served as a research assistant and member of the Harvard Business School faculty.

He joined Luminator, Inc., in Chicago in 1951, where he served in various executive capacities and was chairman of the board and chief executive officer at the time it was merged with Gulton Industries, Inc. in 1968. He was elected president, chief executive officer, and a director of Gulton in 1969, and was elected chairman of the board in 1978. He retired from active participation in 1985, but continues as chairman of the board, emeritus.

Mr. Gips is a member of the National Board of Governors of the American Jewish Committee and national treasurer; secretary of the board of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, and national treasurer of the Coro Foundation. He is on the board of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation and is a Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellow.

Trina D. Weller, a teacher at Hopewell Valley Central High School, was one of 100 teachers selected to receive a $2,500 award as a Tandy Technology Scholar. The program recognizes academic excellence, especially in the areas of mathematics, science and computer science.

Ramine Yazhari, a student at Montgomery High School, was one of 100 students to receive a cash scholarship of $1,000 in the program.

David J. Goldberg, a senior at Princeton High School, was named an Outstanding Math/Science/Computer Science Student national semi-finalist in the Tandy Technology Scholar program, and received a certificate.

Receiving certificates as the top two percent academic nominees were Colin Apse, James Bronzan and Greg Horowitz, all of Princeton High School, and Lucille Hornby, or Stuart Country Day School.

World Book Educational Products' Graham Lello of Princeton and Susan Hall of Belle Mead, have received the company's honor society award. They were among nearly 450 salespeople to win the top award during the company's special selling period, known as the Managers' Personal Selling Contest.

TREE SPRAYING

The Princeton University Department of Grounds and Buildings Maintenance will begin tree spraying the week of March 18, 1991, weather permitting. Spraying will be done during daylight hours. The spraying of elm, ash, tulip and oak trees is necessary to prevent aphid, mites, mealy bug, scale and elm bark and leaf beetle. All materials are approved by the Environmental Protection Agency and have been reviewed by the Department of Occupational Health and Safety.

When possible, spraying will be done at times to avoid conflict with vehicle and pedestrian traffic. If however you are in the area when spraying is being conducted, please try to avoid walking in the immediate area since there is a certain amount of overspray.

The Maintenance Department appreciates your cooperation during this effort to preserve our trees.

possibility of explosions, noise and vibrations, need for permits, electro-magnetic radiation, cumulative effects of exposure to chemicals, and liquid and solid waste disposal.

Ms. Desmarais had specific, factual, low-key responses to each of these concerns, and in most instances they hinged on the fact that very small amounts of volatile toxic chemicals were going to be used in the new facilities and that procedures or requirements are already in place to deal with spills and disposal. William P. May Jr., vice president of BCM Engineers, the firm retained by the Planning Board to evaluate the University's Environmental Impact Study, was asked if he concurred with her assessment.

"We find no difficulty with any aspect of the application," Mr. May stated, "although we think the Borough might wish to obtain additional information." He suggested that the Borough would want to be assured that there was adequate water supply for the sprinkler system in the building and the additional fire hydrants.

Carl Peters, Borough Engineer, assured him that issues relating to fire protection were well on their way to being resolved with the fire marshall and that he would not approve the building plans unless he was satisfied with the fire protection plan.

Specified Truck Routes

Mr. May suggested that the Borough request information on the routes taken through town by trucks bringing chemicals to the buildings. The University agreed to specify routes for its delivery and hazardous waste removal trucks as a condition of approval.

Mr. May also suggested that the University supply a list of all equipment that generates radiation or electromagnetic interference. University officials balked at this, pointing out that the list would have to include the electric coffee makers. One scientist said that the sensitive instruments in a laboratory are at far more risk from electro-magnetic radiation than the people using them, and have to be shielded from sources such as sunlight coming through the window.

In the discussion of cumulative effects of volatile, potentially toxic chemicals, it was pointed out that the engineering complex is in a neighborhood in which there are three gas stations and a dry cleaning establishment, each of which is emitting far more flammable volatile substances than the laboratories would be.

Ms. Desmarais said that an individual pumping his own gas is at a much higher risk than what is posed by the new facilities in the Engineering Quad. She mentioned automobiles and home furnaces as also contributing to the background levels of toxic materials in the air.

Noise Also Concern

The neighbors seemed to have their worst fears somewhat allayed by her statements, and by the fact that the Planning Board's consultant concurred. However, noise during construction was of concern.

Michael Nylin, 53 Murray Place, told of having called the Borough Engineer's office to ask for a sound measurement on a day when construction noise at the parking garage site was particularly bothersome. She said she was told that for a summons to be issued the noise level had to be 65 decibels above normal use and that no normal level had been established.

As a condition of approval, the Planning Board has suggested that a normal level be established. Jon Hlafter, director of physical planning, said the University would adhere to all ordinances and would do its best to minimize the disturbance. New planting will be installed along the backyards of the Murray Place residences early this spring, Mr. Hlafter said, and that will help cut down the noise.

He said the University also wants to keep construction noise at a minimum for the benefit of its students and faculty. "Unfortunately, there will be times when we, and the residents, will be unhappy," Mr. Hlafter said. Construction is expected to take two years.

At the end of the long hearing, Planning Board Chairman Maren Penick congratulated the University for being so responsive, particularly on environmental matters, and she thanked the neighbors for their input.

April Date Is Announced For Stuart Fundraiser

The annual major fundraiser for Stuart Country Day School has been set for Saturday evening, April 27, at the school.

Invitations are now in the mail for the event, which has been titled "Ovations a la Carte - An Evening in Three Acts." The school gymnasium will be transformed into a supper club for the affair. Stuart parents Mary Kay Kuser and Sarajane Smith are chairpersons of the event, and Dorothy Holmes, RSCJ, a member of the faculty for 21 years, is to be honorary chairperson.

The "three acts" of the evening will begin at 6 with complimentary cocktails and hors d'oeuvre with piano accompaniment. During that time guests will have an opportunity to place bids in a silent auction. During the catered dinner to follow, there will be a cabaret performance of Rodgers and Hart music performed by four members of the Stuart fine arts faculty; Sopranos Mary Kemp and Jan Moule, baritone James Welles, and pianist Phyllis Supple.

A live auction of 10 items will take place during dessert. The finale of the evening will be the selection of the winner of the 50/50 cash raffle which has been in progress for some months.

OBITUARIES

Dr. DeWitt H. Smith

DeWitt H. Smith M.D., co-founder of the Princeton Medical Group and former Princeton resident, died March 4 at Good Samaritan Hospital, Corvallis, Oregon. He was 85 and had lived in Hilo, Hawaii, after retiring from his Princeton practice and before moving to Corvallis in 1986.

Dr. Smith was born in New York City, son of a distinguished pediatrician. He attended Phillips Exeter Academy and graduated in 1926 Phi Beta Kappa from Princeton University. He was a Rhodes Scholar at Balliol College, Oxford, England, where he was awarded an A.B. degree with first class honors in physiology.

He received his M.D. degree in 1931 from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City and was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, the physicians' honor society. Dr. Smith interned at Presbyterian Hospital and at Bellevue Hospital, studying pediatrics and gastroenterology. He practiced in New York City before World War II, and taught and did research at New York University and Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

During the war, he served with the Medical Corps of the 27th Infantry Division in the Pacific theater, participating in the battles of Saipan and Okinawa. After the war, Dr. Smith and his family settled in Princeton, where he joined Dr. Leonard Moore, a pediatrician, in founding the Princeton Medical Group. He was the first certified internist at Princeton Hospital.

After suffering a stroke which left him partially paralyzed, Dr. Smith moved to Hilo. There he continued to practice medicine even while confined to a wheel chair. He

Ira J. Kind

Ira J. Kind, 64, of Newtown, Pa., died Monday at St. Mary's Hospital, Langhorne, Pa. Born in Trenton, Mr. Kind was a Trenton resident most of his life before moving to Newtown thirteen years ago. He was a graduate of The George School, Newtown, Pa.

He was formerly associated with his family in Reid's Jewelers of Trenton. He was later associated with Leon and Jon Stein Company of Philadelphia, Pa. The past seven years, Mr. Kind operated a cosmetic sales company.

He was a member of Har Sinai Temple (Trenton) and served as the chairman of the ritual committee and on the board of trustees. He was a member of the Jewish Federation and served on many committees. He was past president of the New Jersey Cosmetic Association and a member of the Mid-Atlantic Cosmetic Association, Empire State Cosmetic Association and Pittsburgh Toiletries Association. He was a Navy Veteran of World War II, and a former member of Greenacres Country Club, Lawrenceville.

Surviving are his wife, Janis Long Kind; three daughters and two sons-in-law, Barbara and Howard Berman of Holland, Pa.; Linda and Andrew Pedisch of Merion, Pa., and Vicki Kind of Baltimore, Maryland; one brother, Samuel M. Kind of Princeton; three sisters-in-law, Dana Kind, Leone Schulman and Alice Ruben; four grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. at Har Sinai Temple, 491 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton. Rabbi David Straus and Cantor David Wisnia will officiate. Burial will follow at Ewing Cemetery, Har Sinai Section, Trenton. The Period of Mourning will be observed at the Kind residence in Newtown, Pa. Memorial contributions to Har Sinai Temple, 491 Bellevue Ave., Trenton, N.J. 08618 or the Juvenile Diabetes Association. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Orland's Ewing Memorial Chapel, 1534 Pennington Road, Ewing Township, N.J.

was the first internist on the big island of Hawaii and started a hospice program, a diabetic clinic and a hypertension clinic, among other specialized programs.

In 1971, he was elected president of the Hawaii County Medical Society. He also raised orchids and was an active member of the Sierra Club and the Hilo Orchid Society. In Princeton, he and his wife Mary were among the founders and charter members of the Unitarian Church and members of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association.

They enjoyed camping and gardening and kept horses and even pigs at their home on Drakes Corner Road. In 1986 they moved to Corvallis to be near their daughter, Corly Davis, and her family. Dr. Smith was a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and of the American College of Cardiology. He also served as president of the Biostatographic Research Society.

In addition to his wife and his daughter, Dr. Smith is survived by three other daughters, Audrey Reed of Howey-in-the-Hills, Fla., Susan Newton of Raymond, N.H., and Nocky Eads of Liberty, Ky.; a son, Blake Smith of East Lansing, Mich.; 13 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

At the family's request, there will not be a service.

Frances Dwiggins, 91, died March 7 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Rock Hill, S.C., Mrs. Dwiggins lived in Princeton for more than 70 years and was formerly employed by Princeton Country Day School. She was a member of Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, its Willing Workers Club and Chancel Committee.

Wife of the late James Dwiggins, she is survived by a daughter, Frankie D. Hines, with whom she resided; three grandchildren, Bernadine L. Hines of Lawrence, Wilbur E. Hines of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mart L. Hines of Chicago; five great-grandchildren; a sister, Muriel Gripper of Princeton; a brother, Edgmar McFadden of Washington, D.C.; a nephew, James "Sonny" McFadden of New Brunswick; and several other nieces and nephews.

The service was held Monday at Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, the Rev. David H. McAlpin officiating. Burial was in Franklin Memorial Park, North Brunswick. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Habitat for Humanity, Princeton Area, 20 Nassau Street, Room 200, Princeton 08542.

William G. Wood, 81, died March 1 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in New York City, Mr. Wood had lived in Princeton since 1964. He was a graduate of Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass., and earned his B.A. degree in 1931 from Yale University and his L.L.B. degree in 1934 from Yale Law School. He was the managing partner of Smith, Stratton, Wise & Heher law firm in Princeton before retiring and a member of the Mercer County and New Jersey Bar Associations.

Husband of the late Marguerite Scott Wood, he is survived by a daughter, Patricia G. Myers of Southampton, Pa.; a son, Jeremy Wood of Weston, Mass.; five grandchildren; and a sister, Mary E. Wood of Montclair.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, March 23, at 2:30 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, the Rev. Bruce M. Wehner officiating. Calling hours will be at the church from 2 until the time of the service. Burial was private, and arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

Albert L. Hibbard, 71, died suddenly March 7 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Merrill, Wis., Mr. Hibbard had lived in Princeton for the past 50 years. A 1950 graduate of Rider College, he retired in 1982 from Educational Testing Service with 32 years of service. A Navy veteran of World War II, he was a member of American Legion Post 76 and an avid bowler.

Surviving are his wife, Anne M. Hibbard; a daughter, Barbara L. Stockbridge of Burleson, Tex.; a granddaughter, Erica L. Stockbridge; a grandson, Gregory D. Stockbridge; and several nieces and nephews in Wisconsin.

Visitation was Sunday at the Kimble Funeral Home with services by American Legion Post 70. Burial will be in Oshkosh, Wis., at the convenience of the family. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

Candace E. McMillen, 44, of West Windsor, died March 3 at home.

Born in Princeton Ms. McMillen had been a lifelong West Windsor resident. She was a graduate of Princeton High School and the Presbyterian School of Nursing. She was employed as director of nursing at St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center, Lawrence Township and was scheduled to graduate this spring from the advanced placement registered nurse program of the College of Allied Sciences at Thomas Jefferson University.

She was a member of the advisory council for the Mercer County Vocational Health Occupation Center and active in community, charitable and professional organizations.

Surviving are a daughter, Dawn A. McCord of Boston, Mass.; a son, Jason Earle of Hamilton; her parents, Rolland T. and Bernice McMillen of West Windsor; a brother, Kevin McMillen of West Windsor; three sisters, Deborah H. Breslin of Mount Laurel, Rebecca Pocino of Sicklerville and Megan Damiano of Mount Hope, N.Y.; and nieces and nephews.

A memorial service was held Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck. Memorial contributions may be made to the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck or to a charity of the donor's choice.

New Rector Is Installed At Trinity Church Here

The Rev. Leslie C. Smith was installed as the 14th rector of Trinity Church in a colorful ceremony at the church on Mercer Street Sunday afternoon.

The Right Rev. G.P. Mellick Belshaw, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, officiated at the two-hour ceremony, which included the presentation of symbolic gifts from constituencies in the Princeton community as well as within the church. The preacher was the Rev. Edgar D. Romig, rector of the Church of the Epiphany in Washington, D.C., where Mr. Smith served as an associate rector for seven years after his ordination in 1969 in his native Massachusetts.

The ceremony began with a procession that included clergy from around the Diocese of New Jersey, all wearing red stoles and following a yellow banner. Music was provided by Trinity's combined choirs, directed by John Bertalot, director of music, with organ and trumpet accompaniment.

During the induction, Borough Mayor Marvin Reed and the Rev. Jeffrey Mays, president of the Princeton Clergy Association, presented a map of Princeton to Mr. Smith, who also received a book of prayers from area clergy, music and a musical instrument from the Trinity choirs, keys to the church from the wardens of Trinity Church, a bible from the lay readers of the congregation, a stole from the Trinity clergy and gifts from the church youth.

The service culminated in a celebration of Holy Communion and was followed by a reception provided by members of the Parish Life Committee, assisted by members of the Youth Group.

A native of Massachusetts, Mr. Smith graduated from Suffolk University and received the master of divinity degree cum laude from Virginia Theological Seminary. During the past four years he served as archdeacon or chief staff officer for personnel, missions and communications of the Episcopal Diocese of Newark. He also served seven years as rec-

Pastor of Christ Church in Glen Ridge/Bloomfield.

Mr. Smith began his ministry at Trinity in early January. He succeeds the Rev. John Crocker Jr., who retired in July, 1989, after 12 years of service to Trinity. The Rev. Jean R. Smith served as interim rector while a search committee conducted an exhaustive search for a new rector.

Bulletin Notes

Griggstown Reformed Church will celebrate a model Seder Sunday at 6 in the church hall. Rabbi Shanna Margolin of the Belle Mead Jewish Center will lead participants through an abbreviated teaching Seder as a pot luck supper is shared.

The Women's Association of Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold its annual Palm Sunday Tea on Sunday, March 24, from 4 to 6. Those attending should enter by the Quarry Street entrance.

There will be a musical variety program featuring participants from the First Baptist and Mt. Pisgah AME Churches as well as members of the Witherspoon Church choirs. A reception will follow in the Parish Hall. The donation is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Everyone is invited.

The Building Fund Committee of First Baptist Church will hold a Mortgage Retirement Banquet on Saturday, March 23, at 6:30 at the Nassau Inn.

The speaker will be Dr. Peter J. Paris, Elmer G. Homrich, Professor of Christian Social Ethics at Princeton Theological Seminary.

For tickets call the church at 924-0877. The price of tickets is $100. Chairperson is Mrs. Hester R. Phox, the Rev. Michael C.R. Nabors is pastor. The mortgage being retired is on the parsonage.
